ARREST IN CEMETERY MYSTERY

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 10.—The arrest of a suspect in the Anna Schumacher murder mystery led the authorities to believe this afternoon that a solution of the cemetery crime was close at hand.

The prisoner was taken to Charlotte instead of being brought to Rochester, and there he was subjected to the third degree in an effort to make him confess. His face was scratched, and this fitted with the police theory that Anna Schumacher left marks upon the face of her assailant, particles of skin being found under her nails.

Seek Man in Woods.

The inquest into the circumstances surrounding the death of the Schumacher girl was begun to-day by Coroner Kleindienst. This is unusual, for the customary proceeding would have been to hold the inquest after the burial. The importance of the case and certain other circumstances made it imperative, however, to begin the inquiry immediately.

One theory is that the Schumacher girl was lured to her death by a woman.

The mysterious woman is described as being tall, wearing a pink dress and "acting wild." The girl and two men were seen in the cemetery late Saturday, the day Miss Schumacher disappeared, and the woman in pink was observed to leave the graveyard alone about 7 o'clock.

At present there is no clew to her identity. The slayer, however, is believed to be a man employed in the cemetery or at St. Bernard's Seminary, and to-day a posse of police and citizens, headed by Chief of Police Quigley, having formed a cordon around the woods adjoining the cemetery, began beating the underbrush.

On Saturday afternoon Anna Schumacher of No. 192 Cady street gathered a basket of sweet peas and nasturtiums from the little garden back of her home, and said to her mother: "I'm going to put flowers on papa's and Gertie's graves."

Her father died only a few weeks ago. Gertie, a young sister, had been dead several years. They were both buried in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery, a Catholic plot about four miles from the city.

Anna was seventeen, a pretty, but delicate looking girl who did not look more than fifteen, to whom dances, theatres and amusements were practically unknown. She had eight sisters and two brothers and had to help her mother to care for them. She had never been away from home over night in her life.

When she did not return Saturday night

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 10.—Rairdon, the young catcher secured by the Doves from Canton in the Ohio and Pennsylvania League, may have to work steadily behind the bat for the Doves for several days. Manager Smith had not rejoined the team at noon to-day, and Acting Manager Dahlen said he did not know just when he would return.

"Peaches" Graham was severely spiked yesterday, and to-day his hand is in bandages. He may not be able to work for a week, but he is very obliging and this morning declared that he would go into to-day's game if it was deemed necessary.

"Our hard luck is unprecedented," said President Dovey to-day. "We have had more injuries to players on this trip than our share. Roy Thomas is a candidate for the hospital. Smith's wife is sick, Graham is out of it, Coffey is ailing, Stem is playing simply because we can't get along without him, and several of our pitchers are in poor shape."

It is expected that Mattern, who started the first game of the double-header last Saturday, will go to the firing line again to-day. Howard Camnitz, the star of the Pirates' staff, will likely go against him.

President Dovey and Dreyfus held a secret conference this morning, which will result in the Doves getting one or two of Pittsburg's surplus players.

Manager Clarke really has more men, and all good men too, than he knows what to do with and the Doves could likely use any that he does not need.

CIVIL SERVICE OFFICIAL NEAR DEATH IN CAB

Henry Sherwin, chief examiner for the Massachusetts Civil Service Commission, narrowly escaped death to-day when a cab in which he was riding was struck by an automobile at the Ashburton place entrance to the State House park and overturned, and Sherwin severely shaken up.

The cab, driven by A. J. Keleher, of No. 52½ Florence street, came through Ashburton place and was crossing Bowdoin street to the State House grounds when a large touring car came along Bowdoin street from Beacon and crashed into it. Keleher, the cab driver, says the chauffeur was looking backwards and that he shouted a warning to him. The chauffeur turned too late and the automobile struck the left door of the cab, overturning it, with Sherwin inside, and knocking down and severely injuring the horse.

Keleher, seeing the danger, jumped. Sherwin was helped out of the debris by passers-by, and assisted to his office in the State House.

The chauffeur refused to give his name and drove away shortly after the accident. At the Massachusetts Highway Commission the number of the car, 0276, is listed for a car owned by K. A. Skinner Company, No. 179 Clarendon avenue. The chauffeur's number 24,903, is a license issued to Herbert W. Sanborn of No. 69 Chestnut Hill avenue, Brighton.

GIRL CHUMS DROWN IN FISH PRESERVE

PROCTOR, Vt., Aug. 10.—Two young women, Miss Olga Bjork, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August Bjork, and Miss Helen Swanson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nils Swanson, both of Proctor, were drowned while bathing in a small pond. They were about seventeen years old. The pond was constructed by the late Senator Redfield Proctor for a fish preserve.

ACTOR "DICK" GOLDEN DIES IN HOUSEBOAT

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Richard Golden, the actor, died suddenly to-day on board the steam houseboat Stroller, moored in Gravesend Bay. Mrs. Golden was not with him at the time he died.

A week ago Mr. and Mrs. Golden started out for a short cruise on the Stroller as guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Newton Porter, who were old friends and acquaintances. Mr. Golden was at that time in fairly good health, although he had been ailing for some time. Yesterday he became suddenly worse while the houseboat was anchored off the Brooklyn Yacht Club. Doctors were summoned, and they diagnosed the case as acute Bright's disease.

Mr. and Mrs. Porter and Mr. and Mrs. Golden were making preparations for a cruise to the Maine coast.

Funeral services will be held at the home of Mrs. W. H. Randolph at No. 604 West One Hundred and Twelfth street to-morrow and the burial will be at Bangor, Maine, the actor's birthplace.

Richard Golden was born in Bangor, Maine, fifty-six years ago. Although better known in the celebrated role of "Old Jed Prouty," the actor had appeared for many years in light operas. He made his first stage appearance at Newport, Maine, in a play called "Fashion" in May, 1867. In 1874 he joined Rice's "Evangeline," of which he was a member for several years. On June 7, 1877, he appeared in this city as the Irish policeman in "Evangeline" at the Metropolitan Casino.

For several years following, Mr. Golden appeared with great success in "The Bells of Corneville," in "Patience," at Haverly's in 1882, and in "The Mascot" in the same year. He then began his long career as "Old Jed Prouty." In 1896 he appeared in "The Fortune Teller" at Wallack's Theatre, and in recent years had important roles in many big shows. He then went into vaudeville with a one-act play in which he appeared in all the leading roles. He then went to London, where he appeared with success in several eccentric roles.

SUTTON'S SISTER TELLS OF DEATH

Brother Murderously Beaten, She Declares, According to Statements Made to Her at Time of Death—Face and Head Disfigured.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Aug. 10.—The most sensational testimony yet offered to show that Lieutenant James N. Sutton was given a terrific beating before he was shot to death on October 13, 1907, was presented to-day by Mrs. Rose Sutton Parker, sister of the dead officer. She swore that Colonel Doyen advised her not to view the body when she came East from Oregon to bury it, telling her that the forehead was bandaged, the nose out of place, a big lump under the jaw, and that there were other bruises.

HUNTINGTON AVENUE GROUNDS, Aug. 10.—There was great glee among the Red Stockings when they started the game this afternoon, for each member had visions of four straight victories before his eyes and to win the last game of the series was their deep-set intention.

The fans, too, wanted to see the White Sox get the kalsomine brush, and yelled all afternoon for the local team to cop off the last game. The bugs turned out in good style, although Comiskey's team isn't much of an attraction. The bleacher seats were very comfortable, as the sun hid behind clouds and the heat wasn't so intense.

To-morrow the White Sox move along to the Highlanders' camp, where they stay for four days.

The Cleveland Naps, who have been exchanging wallops with the New York Kilties, will come along to Boston and will stay here for four games. After this series the Red Sox will take a lengthy swing around the circuit and will be at home again on Sept. 4, when they will meet the Highlanders.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 10.—At no stage in the race for American League honors has so much interest been shown as that displayed this afternoon when the Detroit champions and the Athletics of this city met in the final game of the present series, the result of which meant so much to both teams.

Defeat for the Tigers to-day would tie them up with Connie Mack's men for first place honors.

The enormous attendances which have prevailed every day of this series bid fair to be surpassed to-day, so early did the rush to the grounds begin. Discussion over to-day's possibilities and the wonder at what Boston would do was heard everywhere, making it appear as though the pennant depended on the outcome.

"I will be very much surprised if we are not tied for first place by this evening," said Manager Mack. "The boys are right on edge and will do everything they can to win out in the final struggle, thus making it three out of four with Detroit.

MARBLEHEAD YACHTS HAVE FINE BREEZE

MARBLEHEAD, Aug. 10.—Many more boats in all classes, except the sonders will take part to-day in the open regatta of the Boston Yacht Club, than did yesterday in the races held by the Eastern Yacht Club. Promises of better winds is the cause, as there are no new arrivals in the harbor, but yesterday, many owners of boats did not care to take a chance in the light breezes.

The sonder class trials are creating much interest, and yesterday's contest in which fifteen of the nineteen entries for the elimination trials completed furnished a good line of what work they can do in light winds.

TENNIS FINALS AT NEWPORT

NEWPORT CASINO, Newport, R. I., Aug. 10.—In the finals of the mixed doubles tournament which has been on for a week, and in which Boston society people figured the laurel wreaths went to Miss Edna Barger and Willing Spencer, who defeated Mrs. Borger Wallach and Cyrie Hatch, 6—4, 10—8.

NATHAN STRAUS SAILS FOR EUROPE

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Nathan Straus, accompanied by his wife and two sons, sailed for Europe to-day on the North German Lloyd liner Kronprinzessin Cecilie. Mr. Straus will attend the international medical congress at Buda Pesth to urge the spread throughout the world of his method of pasteurizing milk.

BIG SQUADRON STARTS RUN TO PORTLAND

VINEYARD HAVEN, Aug. 10.—The New York Yacht Club's fleet of nearly an even hundred of sailing and power boats started from this port this morning on the long run of the cruise. The destination is Portland, Me., 100 nautical miles away, and the run is a source of joy to the lovers of hard work, for it means sailing to-day and to-night with watches divided until the bell buoy off Peak's Island is sighted.

On this cruise eastward all the classes seem to be evenly matched, with the winning going to the boat which has a skipper lucky enough to smell winds. The only fault expressed so far is a lack of wind, but conditions are promising this morning, and the long run to Portland will probably be made in record time.

HEAT KILLS 40 N. Y. BABIES

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—The bodies of forty babies are in the morgue to-day, the harvest of yesterday's record heat. They came from various institutions in the city, twenty-seven being from the New York Foundling Asylum.

In addition to the infants there were seven adults reported dead from the heat. It is estimated that 10,000 persons slept on the beach at Coney Island last night.

B. F. WYETH BURIED.

The funeral of Benjamin F. Wyeth, for thirty years an undertaker in Cambridge, was held from the Shepard Memorial Church this afternoon. The Rev. A. P. Bourne, assistant pastor, conducted the services. Selections were rendered by the Schubert Male Quartet and B. B. Gillette, organist. Burial was at Mount Auburn.

WORLD'S BEST FICTION—You get it in the literary supplement of the SUNDAY AMERICAN.

Her brother as a suicide could not be buried in consecrated ground, she said, for the Sutton family was Catholic. This was an insight into one reason for the fight to clear Sutton's name.

"Colonel Doyen told me I had best not see Jimmy's body," she said.

"Why?" asked Mr. Davis.

"Well, he said, it was in bad shape. That the forehead was bandaged, the nose out of place, big lump under the jaw and other bruises."

Dead Man's Clothes Shown.

Then Mr. Davis placed before Mrs. Parker the clothes Sutton wore the night he died. The mother wept again as one by one the garments, bright in stripe and golden braid, were laid upon the table. Mud was on the knee of the trousers, but otherwise they did not bear special evidence of a rough and tumble fight such as has been described.

Next came Mrs. Parker's recital of the interviews she had with the officers at Carvel Hall Hotel when she began to fight to clear "Jimmy's" name.

She said emphatically that Lieutenant Adams had confessed to her that he hated Lieutenant Sutton; that he would have beaten Sutton still longer on the night of the fight had he not been pulled off and that he told her that everybody in Annapolis seemed to believe that he (Adams) had killed Sutton. Adams, when on the stand, had denied all this.

For more than four hours, she said, she questioned Adams and when it was over she had told him, almost appealingly, if he would assist her in proving that her brother died by accident, anything but suicide, she and her mother would never seek a re-opening of the case.

Adams drew within three feet of Mrs. Parker as she spoke and made notes rapidly.

"Did you tell Adams that as long as your brother was deemed a suicide that according to your mother's faith, his soul was in hell?"

Dramatic Moments in Court.

"I perhaps didn't use that word, but I said we must believe his soul lost," replied Mrs. Parker amid the stillness of a crowded courtroom.

"Is he buried in unconsecrated ground?"

"Yes."

"Did you ask Adams if he would swear Lieut. Sutton was a suicide?"

"Yes."

"And what did he reply?"

"He said he would not, but that he saw the flash of the gun and thought so."

"Why did you want to see Adams alone, Mrs. Parker?" asked Mr. Davis.

"Because of several reasons. He was the last officer to appear at the funeral of my brother. He sat rather alone at the end of a bench and never took his eyes from mine. I felt that if I saw him he could tell me something."

"Lieutenant Adams also told me that his life would not have been worth anything had Sutton lived." "What did you say." "I replied: 'Lieutenant Adams, do you realize what you are saying? Don't you know you wouldn't get off if you said that before a jury?' Then Adams said, 'Yes, Mrs. Parker, but I am not before a jury.'"

"Mrs. Parker," asked Mr. Davis, "can you remember just what Adams said about hating your brother?"

"Adams Hated My Brother."

"He said, 'Personally, Mrs. Parker, I hate your brother.' He told me that when he came to Annapolis that he went with him some, but was told by other men that if he associated with Sutton he would be cut by them. He also told me that when Jimmy was down, he, Adams, caught him by the throat with his left hand and beat him with his right. He was still beating him, Adams said, when somebody kicked

FIRE IN BIG HOTEL AT BEACH

SWAMPSCOTT, Aug. 10.—Three hundred guests of the Hotel Preston, Beach Bluff, one of the most exclusive hostelries on the North Shore, were driven from their luncheon to-day by a brisk fire that ate its way through a partition from the kitchen to the dining room.

Only the coolness of the proprietor, J. B. Sharrad, and the waiters and bellman who held back the women in their rush for the doors and assured them of their safety, prevented a panic.

An alarm was sent to the Phillips Beach station, nearly a mile away, and a chemical engine in charge of Chief Coombs responded. He found the fire burning briskly, despite the efforts of the hotel help, who had formed a bucket brigade, to prevent its spread.

A chemical stream was sent through the dining room, and after a ten-minute fight the fire was under control.

Many of the costly tables and furnishings of the dining room were badly damaged and the kitchen range, behind which the fire is believed to have started, was temporarily put out of use. The damage is estimated at $300.

KILLED MAN BY FIST BLOW

NEW BEDFORD, Aug. 10.—Alfred le Barre, the son of the proprietor of the Comique Theatre of this city, killed George McCann by a single blow on the jaw and today was held in the local court on the charge of manslaughter.

Le Barre is seventeen years of age. His victim was nineteen. According to the story told by those who saw the altercation Le Barre was standing in front of the theatre when McCann was passing. Le Barre made some remark at which McCann took offence. McCann walked up to Le Barre and said:

"Young man, you keep your remarks to yourself."

"Oh, I don't know about that," Le Barre is said to have replied.

Then he struck him.

BRANNIGAN BETTER THAN GOLDMAN

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 10.—If a decision could have been rendered, Patsy Brannigan fairly earned it in his six-round go last night in the new Duquesne Garden with Charlie Goldman of New York. Brannigan started in like a whirlwind, but the Gotham boy finally got settled and made a very pretty affair up to the sixth round, when Brannigan again let out and proved to the satisfaction of the crowd that it was his fight.

JUDGE LIKELY TO FREE THAW ON PROBATION

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—That Justice Mills will grant Harry K. Thaw a probationary period of liberty is the opinion of all who have closely followed the hearing at White Plains. It is expected that his decision on Thursday will be to the effect that Thaw may go free for a certain period, provided he will agree to accept an attendant, who shall be designated by the court and who shall report at frequent intervals as to his charge's conduct and general condition. At the expiration of a reasonable period if the court is satisfied that Thaw is normal all espionage will be removed from him and he will be dismissed from the jurisdiction of the courts forever, so far as the Stanford White case is concerned.

"I want to deny absolutely the statement made by Mr. Morschauser that I have asked the Thaws for a settlement of $500,000. I don't have to ask them for anything—I scorn anything like a 'demand.' I am prepared to compel my husband to support me, and I shall do my asking in the courts."

Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, in the most fetching of morning wrappers and with her black hair massed about her white temples, received an AMERICAN reporter in her studio to-day and stated her interview with the above positive declaration.

"What action will you take?" she was asked.

"My action depends upon the decision of Justice Mills, which will be given Thursday," she replied. "If Mr. Thaw is declared sane and released I will ask for an annulment on the ground that he was insane at the time the marriage was performed in Pittsburg."

"In the event of Mr. Thaw being declared still insane and returned to the asylum," she added, "I may sue him for support."

Mrs. Thaw declares that she is not now being adequately cared for by her husband, and that $200 due her on the first of the month has not been paid.

25,000 HARVESTERS WANTED IN CANADA

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 10.—The vanguard of the annual harvest excursion trains, which bear to the Canadian Northwest thousands of men from the provinces to help garner in the big wheat crop, will leave to-morrow, when trains will run from all the principal centres in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island to Montreal, where the big excursion train will be made up. Advices already received from the wheat fields state that fully 25,000 harvesters will be required.

500,000 PHILIPPINE CIGARS COME FREE

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 10.—By telegraphic order from Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Reynolds, 500,000 Philippine cigars have been released from bond and admitted free of duty under the new tariff law. This is the first importation under the new customs. The previous duty on Philippine cigars was $45 a thousand. Under the new law 150,000,000 cigars will be admitted duty free annually. The duty collected would have amounted to $20,000.

457 CORAL FISHERS DROWNED IN SQUALL

ROME, Aug. 10.—A dispatch from Tokio says that 457 men were drowned yesterday when a terrific squall caught the coral fleet fishing off Kobe and capsized nearly every boat in the fleet.

AMES MILLIONS MAKE HELEN HOOPER RICHEST BOSTON BACHELOR GIRL

Miss Helen Hooper.

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT.

Through a decision of the Supreme Court just handed down, Miss Helen Hooper, that winsome little slip of a fair-haired girl yet in her teens, bears the distinction of being Boston's wealthiest heiress.

Miss Hooper is the daughter of the late Robert C. Hooper, and the granddaughter of Frederick L. Ames of Easton. Her estate, which the court gave her in a friendly suit to determine legally her standing in the matter, will total several millions of dollars.

But great wealth will not turn her pretty head in the least. She has always had it, but not so much in her own right, of course, and with all her beauty, wealth and position she has always been accounted one of the sweetest girls in the ultra smart set. She will not be presented for some time.

Even at this early age, however, she has evinced a decided inclination for helping the poor and needy, and under the direction of her late mother, Mrs. Robert C. Hooper, who before her marriage was Helen Ames, she has perhaps done more real good in a quiet way than any other girl of her exclusive set.

Her mother, known as one of the most beautiful and philanthropic of Boston's smart matrons, took especial pride in training her pretty daughter in spending her money where it would do most good for the needy, so it can easily be imagined that with all this vast wealth at her command Miss Helen will continue her good work on a broader scale. She's such a girlish little creature, with her mirthful smile, golden hair and blue eyes, that one would hardly think of her as having a truly serious thought—but she has and lots of them, as her work shows. She takes her greatest pleasure in doing good for poor children—she is extremely fond of them—and the little ones at the children's hospital have long been benefited by her generosity.

In a couple of years she will make her debut, and having inherited the brilliancy, beauty and wit of her mother, she will be one of the most interesting debutantes Boston has ever known. She likes society and a good time, but care not a rap for conventions, rather going along in her own happy way, doing just about what she pleases. She's more the demure type of girl than the athletic, though her horses and her boats are her chief pride.

Last Winter she spent in the South travelling about for her health, the shock of her father's death last Summer following so closely that of her mother, breaking her down completely. But she has fully recovered now and is at the beautiful Hooper estate at Manchester. She will spend the Winter in Europe and the following year will make her debut in Boston.

AMERICAN WEDS AN IRISH BEAUTY

DUBLIN, Ire., Aug. 10.—Isaac Bell, nephew of James Gordon Bennett of New York and Paris, and son of a former United States minister to The Hague, was married to-day in Celbridge, County Kildare, 12 miles from here. His chosen bride is Edwina, the beautiful daughter of Mrs. Claude Cane of St. Walston's, Celbridge. They met in the hunting field when Mr. Bell was master of the Kilkenny hounds, he having previously been master of the Galway hounds. The bishop of Kilkenny conducted the ceremony.

FINED FOR RUNNING OVER A $75 DOG

MIDDLEBORO, Aug. 10.—Clarence A. Edgecomb, chauffeur for Mrs. James H. Rhoades of No. 1717 Washington street, Dorchester, was fined $50 in the Fourth District Court to-day for reckless driving. Edgecomb, with Mrs. Rhoades in the car, ran over and killed a dog valued at $75 in Centre street last night, and refused to stop for Chief of Police Harry Swift. Ten miles down the road he was stopped at the point of a gun by Patrolman McLeod.

WOMAN LURES GIRL TO DEATH IN CEMETERY

her mother was alarmed. Inquiries were made among all the Schumachers' friends and relatives. They know nothing. Sunday afternoon Mrs. Schumacher and some of the other children journeyed to the cemetery. They found the flowers on the graves and the basket nearby. It looked as if Anna had gone away, but this seemed impossible. So they appealed to the police, who found the body buried in a nearby thicket near an ice house.

It seems most probable now she was first struck down as she knelt in prayer before a shrine of the Virgin, which stands in a secluded niche about 300 yards from where her body was found to-day.

DEFENDING FLAG, WOMAN ARRESTED

Mrs. Mary Hughes of Malden street, South End, who was arraigned in the municipal court to-day, charged with assault and battery on John J. Hurley, told Judge Sullivan that she was defending the American flag and the boys in blue. "Your Honor," she testified, "he said uncomplimentary things about the American flag, the American soldier and my husband, who is a soldier. It made me just boil, and I struck him."

"Your love for the flag," commented Judge Sullivan, "is truly commendable, but you must remember that you should not defend it by such methods. However, I will place you on probation, with the understanding that it must not occur again."

VISITING AUTOISTS FINED IN COURT

Three visiting autoists were fined in the municipal court before Judge Murray to-day for violation of the auto laws and traffic regulations. Burr Moody, who is the chauffeur for Benjamin F. Stausser, Chicago, was fined $15 for overspeeding in the Back Bay; Edward J. Estes, chauffeur for Clarence Burrage, lawyer of Toledo, Ohio, was fined $10 on the same charge, and Vernie A. Griffen of No. 35 Church street, Springfield, was fined $3 for violating the traffic regulations.

TWO FINED $40 FOR CRUELTY TO HORSES

James M. Bombard, a contractor, living at No. 48 Tarlton road, Newton, was fined $15 each on two counts, and one of his drivers, Henry Pine, was fined $10, by Judge Kennedy of the Newton Police Court to-day for cruelty to animals. The complaint was made by the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, who called Bombard's attention to the fact that two of his horses were suffering from sores. Passual Pazzi, another driver employed by Bombard, arraigned on the same charge, had his case placed on file.

GRANITE STATE MILK MUST BE IMPROVED

Health Commissioner John Ritchie, Jr., returning from an inspection trip to New Hampshire, says he finds that conditions in the handling of milk have not materially improved, in spite of roseate reports to the contrary. He will submit a formal report to the board in a few days.

"The conditions," he says, "are about as could be expected when the milk producers receive but nineteen cents for a can containing eight and a half quarts, but those conditions must be improved, if I have my way and milk from those sections is to be sent to Boston for consumption by the people of Boston.

LAKEVILLE WINS ITS BATHING FIGHT

FALL RIVER, Aug. 10.—Summer residents of Lakeville, the exclusive resort of well-to-do New Bedford and Taunton people, may hereafter boat, fish and bathe as often as they like. Judge Benjamin Cook, Jr., to-day rendered an opinion that bathing in the waters of Lond Pond did not pollute the waters of the adjoining ponds, from which Taunton and New Bedford receive their water supply. Two of the Summer residents, Edward B. Sullivan of New Bedford and Julius Soltack, a Freetown farmer, were brought into court in a test case and won. They were charged with bathing in Lake Assawampsett, which is connected with Long Pond by a narrow river.

TO-DAY'S CABLE NEWS

Up to Midnight, London Time

King Edward Enters On His "Lucky" Year.

LONDON—King Edward has entered on the ninth year of his reign, and a somewhat noted seer has prophesied that it will be a most auspicious season for the monarch. The prophet figures out that it will be the King's most fortunate year, as nine is his lucky number. Both the monarch's parents were born in 1819; he was born on the 9th of November, a nine-letter month, and his marriage took place in the year 1863, whose added numbers make two nines; his reign commenced in 1901; he was to have been crowned on the 27th, which figures added together make nine; and he was actually crowned on August 9. A horoscope cast for the King shows that, having been born under the constellation of Scorpio, his life is governed by Mars; his lucky stone is the topaz, and his most fortunate day is Tuesday, the first full day of the lucky ninth year of his reign.

Chinese Pork Not Wanted.

LONDON—The first shipment of Chinese pork to England bids fair to be the last. The Peninsular & Orient Steamship Company believed the pork could be brought in large quantities in refrigerating ships and might compete with frozen beef and mutton. The carcasses sold well in the wholesale market, but retailers find that the public will not have it. Public prejudice, even in the poorer classes, was so pronounced that the butchers had in most cases to raise the price of other pork, American and European, before they could dispose of their stock.

Kaiser Ignored by Manuel.

LONDON—The fine hand of Edward VII. is seen in the arrangements for the approaching visit of King Manuel of Portugal to this country. While King Manuel will sail from Portugal on Queen Amelie's yacht and be escorted by a Portuguese cruiser, his real guard of honor will be a squadron of British warships. It is also pointed out that while the official program announces that after leaving England King Manuel will spend eight days in Paris and three days at Madrid, no mention is made of any intended visit to Germany.

EDINBURGH—Beauford Castle, one of the finest estates in the Highlands of Scotland and noted for its famous moors, has been leased for the shooting season by Mr. and Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt. It is the imposing country seat of Lord Lovat, and the same place that Henry Phipps had a few seasons ago. Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt have taken it for this month and next and will have as their guests during the shooting season the Marquis and Marchioness de Ganay.

Antarctic Islands Gone.

LONDON—The whaler Nimrod, on which Lieutenant Shackleton made his Antarctic voyage, visited Macquarie Island on her way home. him (Adams) in the ribs, and he then got up. They wouldn't let him get back at my brother he said, although he hated him so, and was so infuriated that he tried to. He told me how he caught my brother's arms and threw him to the ground, with his arms under his body."

It was a most dramatic moment as Mrs. Parker illustrated the death grapple.

"I asked him why he would hit a man who was down with two or three on top of him, and he said he was too infuriated to know anything."

"Was your brother's pistol in your room during the interview, and if so, what was said about it?"

"Yes, Adams looked at it. Then he said something about me having a queer look in my eyes, and remarked that the Suttons seemed to be queer people," replied Mrs. Parker, with a little smile. "He would not, or could not, tell me with which revolver Jimmie shot himself. He said he thought Willing had taken the gun out of his hand."

A Question of Navy Debts.

"Can you recall anything else that Adams told you in that interview," asked Mr. Davis."

"He told me that if Captain Marix said that my brother owed him anything that I should not pay it; that Jimmie didn't owe him."

"And did Captain Marix make any such assertion?"

"Yes."

"What did you do?"

"I paid him $85."

SERGEANT TODD DENIES HE SAW SUTTON SHOT

Sergeant Archibald Todd, stationed at the Charlestown Navy Yard, who was reported in the morning papers to have seen the shot which killed Lieutenant James Sutton at Annapolis, to-day denied that he was an eyewitness to the tragedy. He admitted that he was corporal of the guard on the night of the tragedy.

The denial was made twice in the presence of four of his superior officers and reporters. He was questioned by Colonel Wood, commander of the force of marines at the navy yard.

Todd was summoned before Colonel Wood at 11:45 o'clock. He was then asked:

"Sergeant Todd, you have seen the article in a morning paper attributed to you, that is, information which apparently came from you. I ask you is that statement correct or is it false?"

"It is false," answered Sergeant Todd.

"Did you ever make the statement attributed to you in a morning paper to a reporter from that paper? Is it a fact?"

"I can't answer that question, sir," replied the Sergeant.

"Why?"

"I can't answer it in that way because a certain part of the statement is true, but the greater part is wrong."

"What part is true?"

"That part where I gave my name, my rank, the post to which I am assigned and the fact that I was corporal of the guard on the night in question, but the rest of the statement is false."

JAPAN HONORS MISS WONTERS

A signal honor has come to Miss Maria Wonters of Manchester from the Japanese government in the shape of a handsome silver loving cup as a recognition of her valuable services in raising money in and about this city which she forwarded to the famine swept country of Japan in the Fall of 1905.

Miss Wonters, who is a teacher of German, raised the money by holding fairs and giving entertainments. So quietly did she accomplish her work that but few persons knew of her efforts. To-day this young woman received the loving cup with the following letter from Kokichi Midzuro, consul-general at New York:

"In appreciation of your valuable contributions to the relief fund for the famine sufferers in the northern province of Japan in August, 1905, the governor of the prefecture of Miyagi has requested me to transmit to you a letter of thanks from him and to present to you a memorial loving cup, which I take pleasure in forwarding to you under separate cover."

BISHOP IS EXILE, NOT A FUGITIVE

Pietro Miraglia, a brother of Bishop Miraglia, who is a missionary in the Italian colony at Waltham for the Unitarian Missionary Society, to-day denied the allegations of an Elizabeth, N. J., priest that his brother is a fugitive from justice. The Bishop, he said, in 1900 was convicted of passing Bibles among the children of Piacenza, Sicily, a grave offence against the Italian government. He was given the alternative of five years in prison or an exile of ten years. He chose the latter.

The Bishop was formerly a priest of the Roman Catholic Church. He was ex-communicated by Pope Leo XIII. The Bishop's term of exile will expire next year, but according to his brother he will not return.

BIG ROOSEVELT GAME COMING

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—The steamship Provincia is expected to-day from Marseilles, having on board twenty casks and nine cases forwarded by Colonel Roosevelt to the Smithsonian Institution. The casks and cases include skins, bones and skulls of the following animals: Reedbucks, steinbucks, duikers, gazelles, lions, dik diks, giraffes, elands, cheetahs, spotted hyenas, zebras, wildebeests, hartbeests, impalias, warhogs, leopards, waterbucks, rhinoceroses, buffalo and hippotamuses.

The beasts were shot under the licenses of Colonel Roosevelt and his son Kermit, and were packed by Dr. Mearns, in accordance with certificates signed by A. Blayney Percival, acting game warden at Nairobi. These goods were shipped on the steamship Adour of the Compagnie Messageries Maritimes at Mombasa on June 28 and were transferred at Marseilles to the Provincia.

Cone, chief of the Bureau of Steam Engineering, and General Elliott are also investigating the labor done by the Naval Prison convicts at the Portsmouth Navy Yard. The investigation, which is being done quietly and without formal announcement, is at the instance of labor organizations, it is understood. Chief Cone, it is understood, is investigating the feasibility of the reconsolidation of departments in the different navy yards of the country.

TAFT AT GOLF AGAIN; FAMILY ON LONG WALK

BEVERLY, Aug. 10.—President Taft went a-golfing early to-day over the Myopia Hunt Club course. He left his Summer home by motor before 10 o'clock, shortly after breakfast.

A few minutes after the President had started out to pursue the elusive golf ball, Mrs. Taft, Miss Helen and Mrs. Taft's sister, Mrs. Louis More, left the Taft home for a good old-fashioned tramp to Beverly, a mile and a half away. They were all dressed simply in white. Mrs. Taft looked well and stronger than she has appeared for some time.

When the centre of the town of Beverly was reached, the three women slackened their pace, and strolled along through Cabot street, the main business street of the town, looking in the shop windows. Word soon passed around the stores about the Taft walking party, and clerks, Summer visitors in the stores, people in the houses all come out to see the President's wife and daughter. They were seemingly quite unconscious of the interest they caused, and walked along till they came to the bridge leading toward Salem, when they turned back homeward. They walked home at a smart pace, reaching there about 11:30 o'clock, having walked a good three miles.

During the afternoon everything was quiet at the Taft home.

Down at the executive offices the few clerks easily transacted the little routine business on hand. Secretary Carpenter did not go to the Taft home till late in the day. He received to-day an invitation for the President to attend the annual outing of the Suburban Newsdealers' Association at Manchester the last of the month. As the President motors to Manchester nearly every day it is probable that he will find time to attend the outing.

The rumor that the President would purchase a Summer home in Ipswich, having been denied from that place to-day, Secretary Carpenter did not think it worth while to add an official denial to the yarn.

RECORD GRAIN CROPS WORTH 3 BILLIONS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—How prosperity is to hit this country through the farmers and the railroads, now that tariff legislation is not a brake upon progress, is indicated in the crop reports. The few men who have attempted to make a false market price in wheat, corn and oats, may have raked some profits in the stock exchanges and fixed paper prices for quotations, but the record crops as disclosed to-day will make their own quotations in the markets of the world, measured by the law of demand and supply.

There is a giant harvest sufficient to keep busy all the rolling stock of the trunk railways. This alone means that in the freight business 1,000,000 men will be busy, not counting lightage on the lakes, canals or rivers, and not taking into account the truckage involved in many of the big cities.

Officials of the Agricultural Department say that this crop report, conservative in its figures, not only will give more momentum to the prosperity wave, but will stop all efforts by speculators to juggle food prices.

The crop analysis here shows that more grain than ever before grew to maturity in a single year in the United States already has been harvested or is rapidly approaching maturity. Never, except once, has there been more wheat; never before has there been so much marketable corn or so much oats. And never before have three bumper crops come together in the same year. Never has such a huge task confronted the railroads as the moving of this stupendous harvest to make market, and never have the roads been better prepared for their work.

When the Government's system of points is translated into bushels the lay mind is able better to grasp the enormity of the crop, other than winter wheat, which is forecast in the last report. Experts do not agree on the basis from which to make this calculation, but striking a mean from among the tables offered, the report indicated a yield of 293,000,000 bushels of spring wheat, 2,954,000,000 of corn, 987,000,000 bushels of oats, 307,000,000 bushels of rye and 179,000,000 bushels of barley, all valued as follows

Wheat,	$717,693,410.
Corn,	$1,894,232,500.
Barley,	$107,400,000.
Rye,	$22,500,000.
Total bushels,	4,855,920,000.
Total value,	$3,102,100,910.

WRIGHT SAYS HE CAN FLY 1000 MILES

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Orville Wright, the aviator, and his sister, Katherine, sailed for Europe to-day on the Kronprinzessin Cecilie.

He and his brother Wilbur are now able to carry enough fuel to stay in the air twenty-five hours, he said. The average rate of speed of a Wright machine is forty miles an hour, so the Wrights have now spoken for the first time with respect to their ability to fly a distance of 1,000 miles.

Asked if he or Wilbur, who will remain in America to instruct the army signal corps men in the use of the aeroplane, would startle the world with new record flights at an early date, Orville replied:

"We have no such intention. At the present time we can carry enough fuel to stay in the air for twenty-five hours. This cannot be duplicated by anyone else, so far as we know, and is due to the fact that we have so arranged our surfaces as to give the highest possible efficiency."

He said he would go first to England to look over the Wright factory and attend to some affairs in London. Then he will go to Germany to make demonstrations on behalf of the corporation that has bought the Wright patents for that country. The company is capitalized at $150,000, he said, and is managed by Captain von Kehler, late of the German Army. Prominent business men and friends of the kaiser make up the list of stockholders. His intention now is to remain abroad about two months.

Mr. Wright in reply to an inquiry relative to reported records in speed by foreign aviators using monoplane machines said:

"All foreign machines are built along the lines of the original filed by us in Europe in 1903. We have the official record of having flown 42½ miles at Fort Myer. I do not know of any foreigner having gone over a marked course at a speed to exceede 38 miles an hour. At Fort Myer, not on an official test of our machine, I went at the rate of 50 miles an hour with a wind from the side. This probably is a speed record in an aeroplane."

Asked if the Wright Brothers would be willing to challenge the world for speed and endurance provided any exigency could arise that would make such action desirable to themselves, Orville answered unhesitatingly, smiling and with dignity: "We consider that we have the best machine in the world."

BELGIAN STEAMER SINKS.

24,600-FOOT PEAK SCALED BY ABRUZZI

CALCUTTA, Aug. 10.—The Duke of the Abruzzi, the Italian nobleman, made a record climb in the Indian Himalayas, scaling Mount Goodwin Austen, which is 24,600 feet high, according to information from Bandipur to-day, where the Abruzzi exploring party arrived yesterday. All the members of the party are well and they tell many stories of the daring of the young Duke.

Godwin-Austen is the name given in 1888 by the Royal Geographical Society to the Himalayan peak K 2, in 35 degrees 53 minutes north, 76 degrees 34 minutes east, in honor of the first explorer of the mountains of this region. It is the highest known summit in the world except Mount Everest. Its altitude is 28,265 feet.

It was reported a few weeks ago that the Duke had accomplished the ascent of Mt. Everest as the first important feat of his present expedition.

NOSE BONE WEDGED INTO PLAYER'S ARM

ORANGE, Aug. 10.—While attempting to catch a fly ball, Carl Holdrige, aged fifteen, was struck on the nose with a fellow's-player's elbow. The force of the blow drove the nose-bone through one side of the nose and wedged it firmly in the elbow of the other player, and could not be pulled out until other players came to their assistance.

Doctors who dressed the injured nose say it is one of the strangest cases on record.

$500 EACH TIME HE TRIMS CUBS

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 10.—Lew Moren, the Pittsburg millionaire's son, who pitches for the Philadelphia Nationals, has been made a new offer by his father. Instead of getting a crisp new $100 bill for every game he wins as previously, he will receive $500 for every game in which he beats the Cubs.

The elder Moren is a Pittsburg rooter, and he is so anxious to see the Pirates win the pennant that his new offer is made.

COOL WEATHER IS FORECASTED

That cool north wind will remain with us to-night.

The Weather Man gave out this welcome news to-day:

"Fair and cooler to-night," is the way the official proclamation reads.

The rain predicted for last night failed to materialize. The North Shore was treated to some lightning and a few drops of rain. The cool wind came up at 8 o'clock last night and remained throughout the night and to-day. The mercury started out in the 70's to-day and climbed but slowly during the afternoon when the sun came out.

HEINZE STOCK THEFT CLEARED

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—The mystery of the missing 20,000 shares of copper stocks originally owned by F. Augustus Heinze was solved to-day with the arrest of Donald L. Pursch, a note broker, of No. 27 William street, on a charge of grand larceny. Pursch is alleged to have taken the stock from John Sherwood, a clerk in the office of Jacob Field & Co., brokers, of No. 74 Broadway, and sold it for $44,000. He gave $10,000 of this sum to Sherwood, according to the latter's statement, and kept $34,000 himself. Sherwood made a statement to-day to Acting District Attorney Nott, in which he said that at the suggestion of Pursch he had borrowed from Field & Co. money to make a loan to F. Augustus Heinze's brokers on the Heinze securities. The 20,000 shares of stock which he took as collateral he turned over to Pursch, who sold them, he said.

WHITING WINS $55,065 CASE

The West End Street Railway Company will have to pay William Whiting $55,065 and $514 as costs, judgment for that amount having been entered in the Supreme Judicial Court to-day. Mr. Whiting's original claim was against the Malden & Melrose Street Railway, and the West End, as its successor, is held liable for the debt.

The amount first awarded to Mr. Whiting was about $20,000, and interest accruing since the litigation began is nearly $35,000.

MANCHESTER, Eng., Aug. 10.—The wreck of an express train near Stalybridge to-day, caused by the intense heat warping the track, resulted in the death of the engineer and fireman and the injury of several passengers.

OFFER TO PAY $1 AN HOUR TO BREAK STRIKE

Contractor George H. Harvey, the master builder who has the contract to finish the new opera house, to-day advertised for 100 plasterers, offering $8 a day for eight hours' work. Despite this tempting offer the men of the Plasterers' Union who are fighting for $5.20 for an eight-hour day, are standing together.

A number of men who were coming to Boston to work on the new opera house tractor Harvey, arrived at Fall River to-day, but when told that there was a labor dispute, the men came to Boston and went to the union headquarters.

B. F. Triple, first vice-president of the Plasterers' National Union, arrived in Boston to-day. He is here to look into the trouble between Contractor Harvey and the members of the local union. In discussing the case, he said:

"I have not been here long enough to become fairly conversant with the local situation, being called here to consult with the officers of the Boston Union; but I see no reason why Mr. Harvey should not be willing to pay $5.20 a day to competent union men and run a straight union job, rather than offer $8 a day for men who are not members of our organization and presumably incompetent."

BLADDER TROUBLES NEED PROMPT ATTENTION.

Perhaps you don't know how much work is required of your kidneys and bladder or of how much importance they are. Do you know that on these important organs hinges good health? Many an apparently strong, healthy man or woman has been stricken without notice by serious kidney and bladder disease only to realize too late what might have been prevented with proper care and attention.

Some of the early symptoms of weak kidneys and bladder are lumbago, rheumatism, catarrh of the bladder, pain or dull ache in the back, joints or muscles, at times have headache or indigestion, dizziness, you may have a sallow complexion, puffy or dark circles under the eyes, sometimes feel as though you had heart trouble, may have plenty of ambition, but no strength, get weak and waste away.

If you find you have some of the symptoms mentioned, you need then a remedy that will reach the seat of the disease and at the same time build up the system generally.

Such a remedy is Swamp-Root, the great, kidney, liver and bladder remedy. In thousands of cases it has accomplished just the work you need performed now.

LOCKHART

Great Mill End Sale

Figuratively speaking, in a business way, our city shook and was moved to its very heart yesterday. The rule of multiplication was overworked in our store, both in reckoning the sales and counting the money; and it would require a ready reckoner indeed to portray the vast throng of buyers at the Lockhart Mill End Sale on the opening day. It was a joyous, happy crowd, as well as a busy and a mighty one. The Lockhart Sale is a powerful instrument for good, invariably pointing to public economy. It lifts up the hand of thrift and draws a veil over high prices, by offering the newest goods in the world at mill end cost.

The Mill End Sale would be dwarfed and stunted without the matchless Lockhart, whose contagious energy never tires. The best interest of the Mill End Sale demands his personal presence as much as the human body requires food. Most of the world's business is done by an associated endeavor of some kind; a two-fold cord is not as easily broken as a single strand; so by means of this sale, the great mills are brought into closer touch and intimacy with the consumers, that both may share the work and profits. There is a common desire, mutual respect and a better chance for all, as the results of this great sale.

Remember that we will maintain the momentum of the great Lockhart Sale for ten days. As fast as lots become exhausted, we will add new lots of fresh and staple merchandise, and the wonderful Lockhart Mill End prices will prevail throughout the sale.

PUBLIC DEMAND FOR LIGHT ON OPERATIONS OF LICENSING BOARD

The public demand for light on the operations of the Licensing Board is becoming general as a result of the BOSTON AMERICAN'S exposure of the triumvirate's autocracy. Owners of licensed places all over the city are telling tales of injustice, discrimination and abuse of power which would seem to require an explanation from somebody.

Reference was made in the SUNDAY AMERICAN to the unfair discrimination in regard to rebates which is charged against the board. The AMERICAN has no means of knowing the full details of the allegations, since the members of the board have declined to even permit an AMERICAN reporter to appear before their august highnesses to ask questions. If there should be a change of mind on the part of the autocrats, the AMERICAN will gladly assign a reporter to wait on the members of the board and give full publicity to any explanation they choose to make.

The notice sent out to the public from one of the board's star chamber sessions in the matter of the rebates was as follows:

> Licensing Board for the City of Boston.
> 29 Pemberton square.
> Ezra H. Baker, chairman; Fred A. Emery, Samuel H. Hudson. Louis Epple, secretary.
> Acting under the authority given in Section 20, Chapter 100, Revised Laws, the Licensing Board gives notice that on and after January 1st it will grant no rebates where a license has been surrendered and cancelled and a new one issued in its place except in cases of death or for some equally sufficient reason.
> EZRA H. BAKER.
> FRED A. EMERY.
> SAMUEL H. HUDSON.
> Licensing Board for the City of Boston.

Tells of Rebates Given.

The AMERICAN is assured by an entirely reputable business man and one thoroughly familiar with the licensing question in this city, that he personally knows of several such rebates since this general notice was circulated.

It is difficult for the average citizen to see anything but rank favoritism and injustice in such official action—provided that the charge is true. It is certain that many applicants, for the most part men of small means, who have had occasion to relinquish their licenses through death, illness or lack of sufficient business, have had to go without the rebate said to be given to others.

The public would like to hear what the Licensing Board has to say to the charge of violation of its rule that anybody wishing to get a North End license would have to buy one already in force in that section, that none could be bought elsewhere and taken into that profitable field. This rule had the immediate effect of largely adding to the values of all existing North End licenses by at least $1,000 each.

In spite of this imperial trade by the triumvirs, it is now charged that Piscopo, against whom the Watch and Ward Society has been fighting for months to have his hotels Rome and Piscopo deprived of their licenses because of the dive-like character of both, has been allowed by his friends in the Licensing Board to buy a license located in Hanover street for $5,000 and sell it next day to a fellow-countryman named Turco in Commercial street for $7,000, a clear profit of $2,000.

About a year ago this Piscopo was granted a license, it is alleged (the Board keeping all such records secret), at Atlantic avenue and Commerce street, after not less than twelve reputable applicants had been turned down for the same locality.

Piscopo is an interesting character. He is said to have made $700,000 in less than fifteen years and he uses his suddenly acquired wealth in an ostentatious way. He has fine motor cars and is in the highest heaven if he can take out Mr. Emery of the Licensing Board or Chief Watts or even an inspector for a ride. He gains scarcely less bliss from his part as host to the captains and other police officials at his hotels. They are said to be frequently his guests at banquets that would make Lucullus himself aspire to a place on Boston's Licensing Board or its army of investment—the police force.

License Given Dummies?

It is charged that it is a common practice for the Licensing Board to issue a license in a dummy's name, although having a complete understanding that he is such and that the real owner is a totally different person. It is said that licenses of this class are owned by Washburn & Crehan in State street, near Washington; in Federal, near High; in Tremont, in Cabot, near Dudley and on Norfolk avenue, Roxbury.

While the board thus permits what is really a small monopoly, scores of reputable citizens make applications without successful result even when they would gladly pay as high as $5,000 a license.

It is alleged that when the Licensing Board came into existence it made a rule that only beer brewed in Boston could be sold and that this practically divided the enormously profitable trade between two concerns. Then a brewery in Springfield and another in Lowell declared war. They sent their ultimatum to Chairman Baker, demanding a fair field and no favor. Hints were made that a suit for something like a million might follow if they did not get it. The ban was then removed and they have been allowed to compete but it is said only with a strong inner and secret influence thrown to the two Boston breweries by the board.

Questions for Board.

Another early rule of the new regime was that they wanted no paid counsel to appear before them, either for applicants or when holders were charged with violation of their license. This meant that even if a man were buying a liquor store for $20,000 and was naturally anxious to protect his interests and employ competent counsel he was debarred from so doing. This rule has since since been reversed and there is a general understanding now that certain lawyers are far more potent with the Licensing Board than others.

The board then made a ruling that none but citizens of Boston might do business in Boston. After turning down between three and four hundreds applicants of this class, they so far modified this ukase as to permit such applicants to use the device of disguising their application in the name of a citizen—thus making another phase of the dummy trick.

The board is requested to explain why it granted a license in Columbus avenue near Dartmouth street, in a residential section, over the remonstrance of 1,000 taxpayers. The board is requested to explain why it granted a woman's privilege to a saloon in the Pfaff Building at Park Square and Eliot street. They are asked by one man to tell the public why they declined to grant a license to the Hotel Tivoli in Washington street, a place run for years as a hotel, and gave one to the Hotel Davis, said to be not nearly so valuable as hotel property.

The only explanation ever given for this unusual decision was that the board did not think the Tivoli was needed there. It is charged that the Hotel Davis got its license solely through the influence of one of the big brewing companies.

The board is asked if it has ever heard of a saloon in the West End patronized by negroes where a crap game is said to be on the boards for the larger part of twenty-four hours daily.

These are but a fraction of the queries that are inundating the AMERICAN office. The AMERICAN publishes them as open inquiries, since the board, through Chairman Baker, has haughtily declined to permit questions in the conventional form before publication.

SAYS PAUPERS ARE UNDERFED

LOWELL, Aug. 10.—Charging that the inmates at the city farm are underfed, Harry W. J. Howe, a member of the Charity Board, has demanded that a special meeting be held to hear his allegations. The meeting will be held this week, if the members can be brought together. To a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter, Mr. Howe talked freely this afternoon. He said: "To make a record for economy I feel that Superintendent Solomon Mayberry is doing an injustice to the inmates of the almshouse. Oleo is served them as a Sunday treat, and on other days they get dry bread, except in the hospital department, where oleo is served daily. How a sick person can go this stuff is beyond me. They serve bread and tea in the morning and by way of variety they serve tea and bread in the evening. I was told that one pound of sixteen-cent tea was used to make forty gallons of tea. I saw men going around with Winter caps instead of straw hats. Economy is being carried altogether too far, and I propose to put an end to it if I can."

NO PAPERS IN SWEDEN.

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 10.—No newspapers were published here to-day save "The Answer," the official organ of the strikers. The situation remains unchanged from yesterday.

A CLOSE SHAVE.

Many of Them Happening Every Day but Soon Forgotten.

Close shaves would be of more frequent occurrence but for the tender faces of many men, which will not permit of shaving often. Heretofore, nothing has been said in these columns about poslam, a new skin discovery, in connection with its use after shaving. Its publicity and sales have been confined almost exclusively to its remarkable properties as an eczema cure; it stops the itching at once and cures the worst cases in a few days. While the application of poslam after shaving is one of its minor uses, such as for pimples, the complexion, etc., shavers will find it a revelation, as it does for abrasions, roughness, and severe scrapings what it does for all manner of skin difficulties—heals and cures in a few hours. It is the only article possessing real antiseptic and curative value that has ever been exploited for this purpose, and will soothe and tone up the skin as no toilet preparation could possibly do.

Poslam can be had for fifty cents at any reliable druggists, particularly all Riker-Jaynes drug stores and Houghton & Dutton's drug dept., who make a specialty of it. Or the Emergency Laboratories, No. 32 West 25th Street, New York City, will send a trial supply free by mail to any one who will write for it. This is sufficient to show results in 24 hours.

"JOKE," SAYS JANE ADDAMS

Miss Jane Addams of Hull House, Chicago, takes the suggestion that she be a candidate for President of the United States as a hoax. The idea of her running for that office on an equal suffrage ticket she declares to be absurd.

"I can't imagine who is responsible for this," she is reported by dispatches from Chicago to say, "but I can declare that it is all a joke.

If the women of Boston who are interested in the suffragette movement started this report, they are jesters. It is altogether too absurd for me to discuss it."

It was an editorial in the Boston Woman's Journal that first mentioned Miss Addams's name in connection with the Presidency. The editorial insisted that there were women in the country perfectly capable of filling the office of President. It said:

"If Jane Addams were President, she would fill the office with as much discretion as Mr. Taft, as much zeal for righteousness as Mr. Roosevelt, and more breadth of mind than either of them."

It was the editorial which gave rise to the rumor that Miss Addams was seriously being considered as a women's candidate for the chief magistracy.

MRS. SIEGEL BAILS SPEEDING DRIVERS

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Mrs. Henry Siegel, wife of the millionaire dry goods merchant, proved herself a veritable "Lady Bountiful" to her chauffeur and a rival, with whom he was racing, in Morrisania Court. According to Motorcycle Policeman Remington, the two cars were running thirty miles an hour on Boston road when arrested. In court, Mrs. Siegel explained that she had ordered her chauffeur, John Elliey, to pass the other car so that she might not be annoyed by the dust. David Folansberg, chauffeur for Dr. C. F. Weber, of New Rochelle, gave the same excuse. Both drivers were held in $300 for trial and Mrs. Siegel pledged her $400,000 town house to release them.

POLITICIANS DRIVE LODGE FROM NAHANT

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge left his Summer home at Nahant to-day for Tuckernuck Island, on the Cape, to get away from the politicians who are pursuing him. Though there are no telephones at the Senator's Nahant residence, the Lynn & Nahant Railroad brings one within fifteen minutes' walk of his home, and importunate ones have been pestering the Senator ever since his return from Washington. His seclusion at Tuckernuck will be complete, and no one will be allowed upon the island without credentials.

ANTI-DIVORCE SPIRIT GROWS

PITTSBURG, Aug. 10.—President Walter George Smith of the Federation of Catholic Societies, who is one of the State Commissioners appointed to look into a uniform divorce law, said to-day:

"The uniform law with respect to divorce has been adopted by New Jersey, Delaware and Wisconsin and will be brought before the Pennsylvania Legislature at its next session.

"The absurdities and immorality of the present conditions may be understood when we think that in New York for instance there is only the statutory charge for which divorce will be granted, while in other States divorce may be obtained for various minor reasons and a divorce granted by one State is sometimes not recognized in another, thus casting stigma on innocent children."

The Federation reports show a membership of 3,000,000 with gratifying increases in every State in the Union.

YOUNG BRIDES UNHAPPY, SAYS LADY CARDIGAN

LONODN, Aug. 10.—The action of Miss May Sutton, the ex-champion woman tennis player, in breaking her engagement, on the ground that no woman should marry before she is twenty-five, has provided the papers here with an excellent subject for mid-Summer discussion, and many interviews on the topic have been printed.

The most interesting of these is given by the Countess of Cardigan, who was married in 1858 to the Earl of Cardigan, hero of Balaklava, and the Earl having died in 1868, she became, in 1873, the wife of Count de Lancastre Saldanha.

As Count Lancastre died in 1898, Lady Cardigan and Lancastre is twice a widow and entitled to an opinion. She is also incidentally the patroness of ten livings and has estates in Leicestershire, Northampton and Yorkshire, while her amusements, faithfully recorded in Who's Who, where her exact age is glossed over, are riding, fencing, music and painting.

"My opinion," said Lady Cardigan, "is that no girl knows her own mind in her teens. At least, girls did not when I was young. It is all very romantic and charming at eighteen, but no girl really knows the heart of man until she is in her twenties. A man at twenty-eight is forty-eight in experience, and how can a schoolroom beauty permanently depose the adorable she who has filled the happy youthful years of this man's life?

"My advice is, never marry too young. The chain of love becomes intolerable when it is hampered with links of doubt and disillusion which cling round a later love."

LADIES OF G. A. R. IN SESSION TO-DAY

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 10.—The delegates attending the national encampment of the G. A. R. divided business and pleasure to-day. The morning started with a meeting of the council of administration of the Ladies of the G. A. R. Then the Andersonville prison board met and the Daughters of Veterans convened. The balance of the program was as follows: Excursion of the National Association of Army Nurses of the Civil War; National Council Relief Corps' meeting; department press correspondents' meeting; National Convention of the Association of Union Ex-Prisoners of the Civil War. To-night there will be fireworks and speeches by Governor Spry, Colonel F. M. Starrott, Judge W. H. King and Commander-in-Chief Henry M. Nevius.

GREECE EXPLAINS; WAR CLOUD PASSES

LONDON, Aug. 10.—It is believed that danger of war over the Cretan situation has been averted by the hauling down of the Greek flag from the Canea fortress and the military barracks there, at the behest of the four powers, England, France, Italy and Austria, which exercise a protectorate over the island. Greece, in a note to Turkey, has disclaimed intent for war on Turkey's part by referring the sublime porte to the Powers, which are dealing with the situation.

TROOPS START FOR SCENE OF THE WAR GAME

Troops are to-day marching to the defence of imperilled Boston. According to General Leonard Wood, the defences along the Atlantic coast are so inadequate that it would be a pretty easy thing for a hostile force to land and shoot up the country. Hence, the mimic warfare that is to be waged all next week along the coast between this city and New Bedford.

It will be one of the greatest conflicts of the kind ever seen in this country. Nearly 20,000 men will be engaged. Among them will be the "Fighting Tenth," the colored men who made history with Roosevelt at San Juan Hill. These brave boys, who recently returned from the Philippines, are marching from Worcester to Milford to-day and will land down around New Bedford the last of the week.

Here are the places where battles may be fought during the week of the fray which begins next Saturday or Sunday: Middleboro, Plymouth, North Bridgewater, East Bridgewater, Kingston, Halifax, Taunton, Hanson and Duxbury.

General Wood, in discussing the proposed manoeuvres, gave this interesting information:

"In these manoeuvres the army of invasion will proceed tactically as in real warfare. No invading force would risk costly battleships within range of guns of a shore battery, it having been clearly demonstrated that one gun ashore is equal to ten guns afloat. So the course of an invading enemy would be to throw its army ashore at a point uncovered by defences and then attack the batteries from the shore side.

"The coming week at Boston will show just how hard or easy it would be for a real invader to attempt to capture the city. It will also demonstrate the country's imperative need of more coast batteries and soldiers to man them."

PLENTY OF NEW LINCOLN PENNIES

There are 200,000 new Lincoln cents at the sub-treasury office in the Federal Building. They arrived from Washington yesterday and bear the initials of the engraver, "V. D. B." Banks will be allowed 1,000, and fifty to each person who applies for them. This shipment of the new pennies was unexpected and will keep the clerks in the sub-treasurer's office busy for a number of days exchanging them for silver. The last installment was 50,000 and was gobbled up in no time.

NEW TARIFF HOLDS UP RACE HORSES

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—One unique result of the Payne Tariff bill came to light to-day. Word was received from Ogdensburburg, N. Y., that the customs officers are waiting instructions there from the Treasury Department over the schedule on transferring horses across the border. Hitherto no duty has been charged. As Canada relies largely upon American horses for her racing, an interpretation placing a stiff tariff on horses will strike a severe blow at the sport. Several horses consigned to the Montreal track are being held.

MALDEN BOY MEETS DEATH IN STREAM

Leaning over the edge of a small brook in the rear of his home to grasp a small piece of cloth that was floating down stream, Myer Klane, aged seven years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Klane of No. 77 Pearl street, Malden, fell into the water and was drowned.

Seventeen Million Breakfasts Shot from Guns

Last month, Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice were served for seventeen million meals. Were all of them served—these delicious meals—in other homes than yours?

Few have any idea how Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice have come into popular favor.

There are many yet who don't eat them. But they are people who never have tried them.

They don't know what they miss.

One taste of these crisp, gigantic grains makes one a convert forever. They are irresistible foods.

Not Mere Curiosities

These grains, puffed to eight times natural size, are very curious foods.

And when we tell you they are shot from guns, they seem more curious still.

But the foods are scientific. They were invented by Prof. Anderson.

They are large and porous because every starch granule has been exploded by steam.

The purpose is to break up the granules, as cooking never does. Then the digestive juices can act.

The result is, the foods are digestible. They are more digestible than cereals ever were made before.

This is the Process

The whole wheat or rice kernels are put into sealed guns. Then the guns are revolved for sixty minutes in a heat of 550 degrees.

That terrific heat turns the moisture in the grains to steam, and the pressure becomes tremendous.

Then the guns are unsealed, and the steam explodes. Instantly every starch granule is blasted into a myriad particles.

The kernels of grain are expanded eight times—made four times as porous as bread. Yet the coats are unbroken, the shapes are unaltered. We have simply the magnified grains, made digestible.

Let One Meal Tell

Serve one of these foods tomorrow—either Puffed Wheat or Puffed Rice.

Do it to see why seventeen million such meals were served last month.

Then you will know what words or pictures cannot begin to tell.

That will be the dawn of a new delight. You'll be glad that we told you to try them.

Order that package now.

'I'M AFTER MATTHEWS YET,' SAYS GOODWIN; 'I MADE HIM EXPLAIN'

Chairman John A. Sullivan of the Finance Commission declared to-day that the commission would not investigate the abatement of $157,000 in tax valuation secured on his property by Nathan Matthews, former Mayor of the city, former head of the Finance Commission and "genuine reformer," according to Harvard, which recently gave him an honorary degree.

Mr. Sullivan added that the commission does not propose to allow any one to dictate to it.

In a statement issued by Mr. Matthews he says he will sell for cash all of the property in question for the present valuation, and he gives this as an argument that the property is not under-assessed. He says that adjoining property had reductions in valuations at the time his taxes were cut.

Councilman Frank Goodwin, who stirred up the hornet's nest in connection with the Matthews taxes, declared to-day that he would spring something further soon in connection with Matthews that will make him sit up and take notice. He denies that all of the adjoining property to that of Matthews had its valuations reduced, and says that there was but very little reduction except in the Matthews case.

Mr. Matthews's Reply.

In his reply to the Goodwin charges, and which he states will be his sole and last reference to the tax case, ex-Mayor Matthews says:

"Most of the property referred to in Mr. Goodwin's article in the papers of August 9 belonged to my father, and was conveyed by him in 1903 to ex-Judge Dunbar and Charles S. Rackemann in trust to hold for him during his lifetime, with remainder after his death to my brother and myself, also in trust.

"The property consisted of a number of apartment houses situated at the South End and in that portion of the Back Bay which lies on the southerly side of the Boston & Albany Railroad. It was assessed in 1904 for $693,000, and was subject to mortgage and other liabilities amounting to about $500,000. My father died in 1904, and the property was turned over by Messrs. Dunbar and Rackemann to my brother and myself under a decree of court in March, 1905.

"For the purpose of adjusting their accounts, which were duly filed and allowed in the Probate Court, Messrs. Dunbar and Rackemann had the property appraised by Russell G. Fessenden, Stephen H. Whidden and John F. F. Brewster, the result being a valuation of $578,000, or $115,000 less than the assessors' valuation.

"Thus the property was valued in 1905 by the assessors at 20 per cent. more than its valuation according to sworn appraisers appointed by the Probate Court in proceedings over which the present trustees had no control.

Revalued at $600,000.

"Upon the receipt of the tax bills for 1905 the new trustees applied to the assessors for a reduction, paid their taxes under protest, and after a full exhibition of rents and expenses received an abatement, due to a revaluation by the assessors on the basis of about $600,000 for the entire estate. The property has been assessed at these figures ever since.

"We thus have for this property three valuations during the past five years:

Assessors' valuation prior to 1906	$693,000
Assessors' valuation since 1906	600,000
Valuation made by sworn appraisers in 1905	578,000

"The property is carried on our books at the smallest of these three figures, and from our knowledge of sales of similar property, and our experience with the property itself, we are satisfied that the present assessment of $600,000 in round numbers, so far from being less than it should be, is still too large.

"In order to demonstrate the entire good faith in which the reductions in question were asked for by us and made by the board of assessors, and to dispose of the property at a fair price, I will add that after consultation with my co-trustees I am prepared to say that if anyone will, within sixty days, offer us in cash the present assessed value of the entire property in question, including the Oxford Trust and the real estate belonging to my father, and pay a reasonable sum down to bind the bargain, we will accept the offer and allow the usual time for examination of title.

Sees Political Motives.

"Mr. Goodwin's latest charge is nothing but a step in the anti-Finance Commission campaign which is being prosecuted by a class of politicians who, under the new charter, will no longer control the business of the city. I may be permitted to express the hope that it will not be necessary to burden the columns of the daily press with any further exhibition of the baselessness of charges, which, inspired by disappointment and malice, are put forth in the obvious effort to prevent the reform of our city government."

"Investigate?" said Chairman Sullivan of the Finance Commission. "Why, what is there to investigate? No evidence tending to show that any improper methods had been used by Mr. Matthews to secure an abatement of his taxes has been presented by either Councilman Goodwin or anybody else. If any such evidence should be presented, the Finance Commission would investigate. But no member has even suggested an investigation."

Councilman Goodwin read the explanation of ex-Mayor Matthews with much interest. "Well, I made him explain," said the Ward 1 Councilman, "but I'm not satisfied with the explanation and I'm not through with Matthews. Just as soon as I study his statement a little I'm going to show how abuttors to the Matthews estates have not had their taxes reduced. Some have, but only a few. I'll be after Matthews right away."

PARKMAN FUND STILL PUZZLE

City Treasurer Slattery to-day sought instructions from Judge Rugg of the Supreme Court as whether the city of Boston should be allowed to spend $125,000, the income that has accrued on the Parkman fund between the death of the late George F. Parkman and the time when the estate was turned over to the city by the trustee, Edmund D. Codman.

According to the will, the income from the residue of the Parkman estate, amounting to $275,000, was to be spent by the city in maintaining public grounds and parks. When the money was turned over to the city there was $400,000; $125,000 of this amount was interest. The question arose whether the income to be spent by the city should date from the death of Mr. Parkman or from the time the money was received by the city. Judge Rugg reserved his decision.

HILL TO ACT ON CURLEY CHARGE

Before starting to-day for Lake Asquam, New Hampshire, to spend his vacation with his family, District Attorney Hill gave out the following statement regarding the charge made by Alderman Curley against President James Donovan of the Democratic City Committee:

"No facts have been brought to my attention in this matter, except the verbatim copy of the speech made by Mr. Curley in the Board of Aldermen on July 26, with which I was furnished by Mr. Donovan's counsel. Mr. Curley called on me at my request on Wednesday last, but then stated that he preferred to make no statement as to the basis for his charges pending the investigation which has been voted by the Board of Aldermen.

"I have seen Alderman Attridge, who introduced the resolution calling for an investigation, and have been informed by him that further action awaited the appointment of a committee by Chairman Brand. Upon these facts and under these circumstances I do not propose at the present time to undertake an investigation which would require a special session of the grand jury. When I return from my vacation I shall consider the matter further."

LEATHER TRADE MEN PLAN CELEBRATION

The New England Shoe and Leather Association will celebrate the recent great trade victory for free hides by holding an informal meeting and reception at the rooms of the association, No. 166 Essex street, Wednesday noon. The guest of honor will be President Charles H. Jones of the Commonwealth Shoe and Leather Company, whose work at Washington had much to do with the final result. There will be addresses by President Charles C. Hoyt, Elisha W. Cobb, George E. Keith, Andrew G. Webster and others who took an active part in the free hide contest.

GAS EMPLOYES SPLIT UP $48,000

The Boston Consolidated Gas Company is making its third distribution to employes under the profit-sharing plan adopted in 1906, which calls for the payment of $48,926, equivalent to 9 per cent. on the earnings of 638 employes for the fiscal year ended June 30 last. Since the plan has been in operation the company has paid its employes $118,737, the premium paid each year being calculated at the same rate as the dividend on the stock, which was 9 per cent. in the fiscal year just closed, 8 per cent. in the previous fiscal year and 7 per cent. in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1907.

EX-MAYOR GREEN IS COMFORTABLE

PRIEST TRANSFERRED.

The Rev. Michael F. Callahan of Hingham has been transferred to a parish in Ayer, Mass., by Archbishop O'Connell. The change was made at Father Callahan's request, as he has recently suffered from throat trouble. His departure caused deep regret at Hingham, where he was a well beloved and faithful priest.

MID-SUMMER AMUSEMENTS FOR EVERYONE

"Annie Laurie," written by M. Douglass Flattery, a Boston dramatist, was given for the first time on any stage at the Orpheum yesterday. The play is a romantic drama in four acts and was received with much appreciation by a large audience.

The scene of the play is in England in the seventeenth century and the plot is laid about the adventures of the adherents of James of England and William of Orange. As Annie Laurie, Miss Bruns presented excellently her part. Mr. Miller as Robert Reid honestly acted the manly lover. Mr. Walker as the villain, Lord Greenock, successfully drew the hisses of the audience. Mr. English as the comic villain was good.

Keith's.

Starting off with an excellent concert by the popular Fadettes that stirred the audience to ringing enthusiasm, the current week's bill at Keith's is one that can justly be called a capital summer program. Sharing the honors with the orchestra as a feature number was Joe Welch, the inimitable Hebrew comedian, with some new songs and stories and a pathetic finale that struck a responsive chord in the hearts of the large audience which welcomed his reappearance in vaudeville.

Estelle Wordette and company have a new sketch, "When the Cat's Away," built around the familiar mistaken identity theme, but with a laugh in every line and some localisms thrown in by the company that make it go big.

Bowdoin Square

The feminine portion of the audiences at the Bowdoin Square Theatre this week is keenly interested in the hand-painted gown worn by Miss Charlotte Hunt in one of the scenes in her interpretation of the role of Mabel Harwood. This gown was designed and painted by Miss Hunt and is considered one of the most artistic creations that ever graced a local stage.

The drama for the week is "Through the Breakers," which deals with the double life led by Peter Turner and his unsuccessful plottings against the love and happiness of Mabel Harwood. Turner is properly defeated in his scheme.

Thursday brings the complimentary benefit at the Bowdoin Square to Edwin Denison, in which Mr. Denison will have the leading role in a special production of "Beware of Men."

Grand Opera House.

The Grand Opera House under Manager Magee has made a good start on its season with the melodrama "Convict 999." The play is just the sort that pleases the patrons of the Grand Opera House, for it is well acted and replete with dramatic situations and crises from start to finish. There is no such a thing as waiting in this play.

New Palace.

Evelyn Abbot and company in the lively sketch, "A Fool's Errand," is the headliner on this week's bill at the New Palace. Other features include Jack Lyle, the blackface comedian; the Three Tumbling Coles in comedy acrobatics, Lillian Murtha, who is known as "That German Girl," Falke and King, the singing and talking comedians; Gertrude Mann, vocalist, new moving pictures and new illustrated songs.

Globe.

Jeans and Craeno, with their remarkable juggling dog, head the entertaining bill at the Globe Theatre. The dog is a star feature of their act and receives fully his share of applause.

Columbia Opens.

The Columbia Theatre opens for the season next Saturday night, August 14, with "The Jardin de Paris Girls," in merry burlesque. Beginning next week the wrestling and amateur nights will be a regular feature as before.

Gaiety.

The Gaiety Theatre opens for the season on Monday, August 23, with Clark's New Jersey Lilies in burlesque.

Boston Theatre.

The Boston Theatre will open during the week of August 23 with "The Three Twins." The cast will include Clifton Crawford and Bessie McCoy.

Austin & Stone's Museum.

Thousands of art patrons and others are going to Austin & Stone's Museum this week to see Coulon's $40,000 painting, "She Will Live." It is a wonderful study of a vital episode in the New Orleans yellow fever epidemic. Others features of the week's bill at the Museum include Partello, the juggler; big Ben Hur, king of snakes; Bert Howe, the monologuist; Frothingham and Denham and Delvinette Brothers in balancing, and a new and breezy bill by the Manhattan Girls.

Premier.

The cameraphone acts at the Theatre Premier of Fisher and company, O'Brien's automobile and the Glow Worm are bright in dialogue, catchy in song and pleasing in action.

The Hub.

Patrons of the Hub Theatre are thoroughly satisfied with this week's bill, as it gives them full two hours of solid entertainment that is really hard to beat for variety and excellence. The olio is especially excellent, well-known vaudeville teams providing several different attractions not often seen on the stage.

Norumbega Park

The vaudeville performance seen this week at Norumbega Park is one of the finest ever produced at a Summer theatre. The Florenz troupe of five women and men acrobats and gymnasts introduce feats not done by other performers in this line of work. Last night a large audience saw the entire bill with keen appreciation, for the management has spared no effort nor expense to secure drawing cards for the Summer outdoor theatre.

Paragon Park.

Paragon Park is drawing this year as never before. On Sunday and last night two record-breaking audiences were in the Park de Luxe, the hot weather making that amusement resort a truly delightful spot because of the cool breezes which swept it from every direction. The palm garden was filled all evening, and the roller coaster, circle swing, merry-go-round, Mexican railway and all the other attractions being crowded from start to close.

New York Trolley

A special trolley leaves Post-Office Square at 2:30 p. m. daily, except Sunday, for Providence or Fall River. Connections are made with the night boats for New York. The trolley and boat trip make an ideal hot-weather route to Manhattan.

North Shore Route

Now that President Taft is finally at Beverly the North Shore takes on added interest. Travel is therefore increasing on the trips of the steamer Cape Ann, which sails from Central wharf to Gloucester at 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. daily; Sundays at 10:15 a. m.

Cape Cod Boat

The steamer Cape Cod of the Boston-Provincetown line takes passengers on an invigorating sail across Massachusetts Bay to the scene of the first landing of the Pilgrims and to other historic spots. The Summer season along the Cape is at its height and boat travel there is heavy.

Steamer King Philip.

Passengers on the deep sea fishing steamer King Philip are preparing this week to break records for big catches made by one of the expert anglers last week. Women are frequent passengers on the King Philip, showing themselves as clever anglers as the men. The King Philip sails at 10 a. m. from Commercial wharf.

Joy Line Trips.

Joy Line trips to New York, via rail and boat, are a favorite method of travel to the Metropolis this summer. The journey is safe and convenient. Details of trips may be obtained at the city ticket office, No. 214 Washington street.

Satellite Fishing.

The steamer Satellite runs daily to the deep sea fishing grounds from Central Wharf at 10 a. m. Women are enthusiastic patrons on these trips and make catches which rival the work of the masculine anglers.

Bass Point Boats.

Bass Point and Nahant boats, leaving Otis Wharf on a nearly hourly schedule, take passengers on a delightful sail to one of the most attractive amusement and recreation regions in the circle of Greater Boston. Good hotels, fine cuisine, lively music and other comforts and pleasures are found there.

Point of Pines.

The Point of Pines, handy to Boston and enjoying a new lease of life, is drawing thousands of amusement seekers, automobile parties and tourists generally. The hotel service is excellent and other attractions are on a similar plane.

Maritime Provinces

There is steady travel from Boston to the Maritime Provinces on the steamers Prince Arthur and Prince George of the Dominion Atlantic Railway Steamship line. Yarmouth sailings are at 2 p. m. daily, except Saturday, from Long wharf.

TEDDY, JR., WHO WILL LEARN HOW TO RUN AIRSHIPS

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., has decided to devote not a little attention to aeronautics, as he has become satisfied that in that line lies greater opportunity for fame than in any other.

To familiarize himself with the element, he will make a balloon ascension at Pittsfield, Mass., within two weeks. He has made application for membership in the Aero Club of America.

Since making two trips in signal corps balloons last year young Roosevelt has determined to go in for the sport and may purchase a craft. At any rate, he will apply for a pilot's license, to qualify for which calls for ten trips in a balloon, one to be made alone and one at night. If he is successful he may participate in the national races to be held in the West this Fall.

TO RUSH WORK ON $5,000,000 COTTON MILLS

The manufacturing awakening of East Boston has just taken a definite step forward with the selling to the new Maverick Mills Company of 475,000 feet of land along Chelsea Creek. Cotton mills to cost $5,000,000 will be built on this land, and hundreds of laborers will be employed. Now that the East Boston Company has sold the land, the work on the mills will begin at once and will be well under way before snow flies.

Before early Fall work will also be begun in East Boston on the new immigration station at Jeffries's Point, the great cold storage warehouse of the Boston Refrigerator Company near the Maverick square station of the East Boston tunnel, and on the addition to the General Electric Company's plant at Jeffries's Point.

The new elevator of the Boston & Albany Railroad on Marginal street will soon be finished. The Boston & Maine has let contracts for the enlargement of its docks and freight sheds in East Boston.

Announcement has just been made that the Sorosis Shoe Company will move its shops from Lynn to East Boston. The company has already found a site and will erect the largest shoe manufacturing building in the world.

The Maverick Mills, of which Eugene N. Foss is one of the leading promoters, will cover over fifty-three acres of land. Mill No. 2 alone will contain 60,000 spindles and employ at least 1,000 people. The buildings will be built by local contractors. The cost of the first unit of the mills to be built will be $1,000,000. The Chelsea Creek site was selected because of its water frontage. A ship channel has already been dredged, which will allow ships of normal draught to tie up alongside the mills docks.

OLD DINGLEY RATES PREVAIL IN BOSTON

No official word has yet been received of the change in the tariff schedules at the Boston Custom House, and Collector George H. Lyman continues to impose duties under the old Dingley act. The accounts with all importers, however, are kept open, and as soon as the official schedules arrive they will be rectified. Where the duties have been lowered, the government will give rebates, and in the case of liquors, wines, hosiery or other goods where the tariff has been raised, the dealers will be asked to call and settle the difference.

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS

AMALGAMATED PRICE RISES

STATE STREET, Aug. 10.—The forenoon brought forth no particular feature in the stock market, although it was broad and active and with good tone. The same specialties as of late were the active features. U. S. Oil showed good support and the price rose to 37¾. Amalgamated showed strength and stiffened to 86⅞ on buying for New York accounts. The Copper Producers' report for July which is issued to-day, is expected to be favorable and pending this mining stocks held about steady, except North Butte, which broke 1½ points to 55¼ on scattered selling.

Lake Copper was again active. It stiffened to 34, but had fractional setback from this. Superior Copper was also in demand and varied from 61 to 62, but had no marked action. Steel common opened at 78.

The Boston Consolidated Gas Company is making its third distribution to employes under its profit-sharing plan, which calls for the payment of $48,926, equivalent to 9 per cent. on the earnings of 638 employes for the fiscal year ended June 30 last.

Boston & Maine for the year ended June 30 earned a surplus of $520,142 above all charges and dividends. This compares with a deficit of $1,409,061 the previous year.

Curb trading was of fair volume, with prices well maintained. A new seam of coal has been encountered at the Rhode Island Coal Company's property. An order will be placed at once for the first twenty-stamp unit in the new 100-stamp mill to be installed at the Vulture mine.

MORGAN POOL IN FULL SWING

By T. C. SHOTWELL.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—The Morgan pool in Wall Street began operations again to-day on an extensive scale. Twelve issues established themselves on new records immediately. St. Paul was the leader at 162⅞. The others were Atchison at 120⅝, Smelters 103¼, Amalgamated 86⅝, Louisville & Nashville 153, Chesapeake & Ohio 28½, Union Pacific 205⅞, Great Northern Ore 86⅛, Rock Island common 41¼, Rock Island preferred 79⅞, Illinois Central 157⅝ and Denver preferred 89⅝.

This demonstration attracted the multitude, and the bull market was soon marching forward at a rapid rate. The bears hung on the outskirts of the crowd, but were able to make no impression.

The great harvest of grain promised by the government crop report yesterday was the cause of the demonstration.

London was strong. A short interest of importance has been caught in Amalgamated copper.

DOVES' NEW MANAGER HAS RISEN RAPIDLY

Barry Smith, who has been elevated to the job of managing the Boston National League Club, is a resident of Massillon, O., and has played with many independent teams throughout the State. When his arm went bad a few years ago he formed a great independent battery with his brother Sam, who starred in the minor leagues as a pitcher.

Smith worked his way from the minor leagues to the majors rapidly. A tendency to injury kept him down and has interfered seriously with his work in the big show. He commenced league ball in 1895 at Warren, Pa., with Claude Ritchey, Bill Carrick and others who soon branched out into the majors. Smith was the premier catcher of the Iron and Oil League, of which Warren was a member. His work attracted the attention of the Buffalo management and he joined that club in 1896. He was re-engaged in 1897, but an injury put him out in June.

The next year he went with Wilkesbarre, which was in the Eastern League then. In 1900 Smith joined Connie Mack's team at Milwaukee, and when it was transferred to Philadelphia in 1901 he went along. His advent as an American League catcher was auspicious. The first game he caught at home he threw out three men at first base with a peculiar jerk throw underhand. The Philadelphia papers printed columns about his ability and one devoted an entire page to descriptive matter and pictures.

In 1902 he signed with Pittsburg and remained the property of that club until 1907. During a portion of this time he was relieved of duty because of a lame arm. He caught a few games for Sharon in the O. and P. League and managed that club for a minute.

In 1907 he joined Boston, but trouble with his arm again put him out of playing most of the time. He was appointed manager when Bowerman quit, July 15. Smith is now catching regularly and seems to have regained his old time form. When right he is one of the most graceful men who ever stepped behind the plate. In his early days with Pittsburg he was a grand hitter and strong thrower. Under his management the Doves have taken a brace and look a little more like a real ball club.

BOSTON BOY GETS RECORD.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Aug. 10.—Jimmy Ryall of Boston lowered the five-mile amateur record to 4:52 1-5 at the automobile races, the feature of the opening of the Blue Grass Fair. Ryall drove a Buick.

STAR ATHLETES WILL COMPETE IN WINDY CITY

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 10.—The Irish-American Athletic Club's star athletes, John Flanagan, Matt McGrath, Martin Sheridan and Dan Ahearn, will appear in Chicago in a field meet at Gaelic Park Sunday, August 20. Word was received from the Easterners that they would stop off en route to New York from Seattle, where they will take part in the national meet.

The Gaelic Athletic Club, under whose auspices the meet of August 29 will be held, has invited all amateur athletes in Chicago to compete in the event.

The quartette of great Celtic athletes are likely to break a few weight records among them when they appear at the Forty-seventh street grounds. Flanagan holds the record for the sixteen-pound hammer throw. McGrath and he are likely to compete in the hammer event.

Sheridan will give an all-round exhibition, according to the programme. Ahearn probably will take part in three events, among them the hop, step and jump, his specialty.

It is possible that several other Eastern athletes will take part in the meet.

WOLGAST AND MURPHY SIGN

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 10.—The National Athletic Club of Pittsburg announced to-day that it has closed with Ad Wolgast and Harlem Tommy Murphy to fight six rounds here on the night of September 1. The fighters will divide $2,500 for their go. The deal has been on for some time, a representative of each man being in Pittsburg last Friday. Wolgast was anxious to fight clean breaks, while the Harlem boy was more willing to permit each fighter to fight himself clear as this is a style of milling particularly favored by Murphy.

SO BIG GREEN CHROMOS ON 'PIPPINS' TO WIN
PIPPIN

Verses Coming In FOR THE NEW SONG HIT

"I Love My Pipe But Oh, You PIPPIN"

Here's One About Mutt:

Poor Mutt was in the daffy house,
Sun spots upon his brain;
To dope the ponies day by day
Was such an awful strain.
The doctors in the booby hatch
Had chained Mutt to the wall;
Said they: "Too muchee dope ails you
Too many 'pipes'—that's all.
From now, old sport, smoke Pippins,
That's the only thing to do,
A quarter's worth, six every day,
You'll leave us P. D. Q."
Said Mutt, "Now Doc, quit tempting me,
I live here like a prince—
And when you sing me 'Home, Sweet Home.'
You hand me out a quince!"

Chorus by Augustus Mutt:

"I love my dope, but Oh you Pippin!
I'd live in dreams, but Oh you Pippin!
I'm mighty glad that I went daft,
This padded cell is easy graft.
It's something fierce to have to go
Back to my wife and Cicero;
But still its 'au revoir' stone walls,
And Oh! you Pippin!"

DUTCH SCHAEFER FOR DELEHANTY

DETROIT, Aug. 10.—A deal is now pending which, if it goes through, will make Herman Schaefer a member of the Washington Nationals and Jim Delehanty a member of the Detroit team.

Cantillion has openly admitted he would like to get him for Washington.

In 1908 Delehanty was the second best hitter in the American league. With a batting average of .317 he was next to Cobb and just ahead of Crawford, who had an average of .311. Delehanty has not been playing good ball this year, due, it is said, to dissatisfaction with Washington.

GOLDMAN BESTED PAT BRANNIGAN

PITTSBURG, Aug. 10.—Three thousand persons sweltered in the National A. C. while four rattling six-round fights were pulled off. Patsy Brannigan of Pittsburg and Charley Goldman of New York fought six as vicious rounds as were ever shown here, with Goldman having a trifle the better of it at the end.

What was to have been the big fight of the evening was that between Johnny Kilbane of Cleveland and Happy Davis of New York, but Davis did not seem up to the notch and stalled the whole six rounds, which he ended badly winded.

Young Ziringer of Pittsburg was outpointed by Babe Cullen of New York, who came here as a substitute for Tommy Nelson, who was injured in New York Saturday.

Silvey Martin, known as Joe Grim, fought a hard six-round draw with Joe Getz of Johnstown.

A Want Advt. Is Often the Road to Fortune.

Notes of the Red Sox Game

In the opening inning George Davis pulled off a good stop with his gloved hand that robbed Speaker of a double or triple and the Red Sox a run, as the fleet-footed Niles was on first base.

McConnell nipped off the first bit of the game in the third round, and then to show that he was there he stole second. From there he went to third on Carrigan's sacrifice and scored on Hall's out.

Hall had the White Sox buffaloed for the first four innings and did not allow a hit. In the fifth, with one down, Tannehill scratched a single past McConnell, this being the first hit off Hall. Atz, the next man up, hit into a lightning-fast double pley, McConnell to Wagner to Stahl.

The Red Sox had a swell chance to score in the fifth round, as Stahl singled and swiped second. McConnell walked and the runners moved up a base on Carrigan's out. It was then up to Hall, but he couldn't get the needed hit and the work was unproductive.

The Red Sox cut in with three errors in the sixth frame, allowing the White Sox to tie the score. Carrigan, Lord and Speaker were the offenders and caused Hall a good deal of worry.

Lord seems to have lost his batting eye and don't know where to find it. He hasn't had a hit in the last couple of games and but one the last thirteen times at bat. The slump has brought him out of the .300 class in his average.

The Red Sox blew a good chance to score in the sixth session as Speaker was on third and Gessler on first. They tried the double steal and although Speaker is fast he couldn't beat it home ahead of Atz's throw.

Niles made a beautiful running catch off Atz in the eighth inning and saved Hall a hit.

Hall let down a trifle in the eighth and Payne and Scott hit for singles. Payne was caught trying to stretch his hit to a double.

Stahl got a hit in the fifth session that should have been an out, but Parent played the ball very badly.

Hall gave the fans all kind of worry in the last inning, as he issued passes to Dougherty and Davis, but he made Tannehill fly out and there was no scoring in that round.

Wagner leaned on one in the last inning that sailed clear past Dougherty and to the left field bleachers. Heinie might have had a home run on it, but he didn't feel like wasting the energy on a hot day, and as Doc Gessler scored the winning run that is all he cared about.

Payne caught a swell game behind the bat and in the last inning was relieved by Sullivan.

Jimmie Scott twirled for the visitors and it certainly can't be said that his work was anything but high class. Any other day he would probably have won, but Hall was too good yesterday.

It was a sparkling debut for the youngster from St. Paul.

These Western boys the Red Sox have picked up have been pretty good things. Larry Pape, Joe Wood and Charlie Hall are the ones who have done the best.

Tannehill, Payne and Scott were the only ones who connected for the White Sox, while Gessler, Wagner, Stahl and McConnell were the hitting kinds on the local team.

Hall gave the fans a scare in the ninth inning by walking Dougherty and Davis with two out. Then Tannehill came up and boosted a high fly to Gessler and they went without a run.

There will be four classes under A. A. A. rules. The entry fee has been set at $300, and the prizes are: Class 2, Vesper Country Club trophy; $600 additional to winner; second, $200; $100 third, in cash or plate. Class 3, Yorick Club trophy, $600, $200, $100. Class 4, Merrimac Valley trophy, $600, $200, $100.

These three races are to be started together on Monday, September 6, at 10 a. m., finishing according to distance. The class 1 national stock chassis competition will be run off on Wednesday, September 8, over a course of 318 miles. The entry fee is announced as $400, and in addition to the Lowell trophy the following cash prizes are offered: $1,000, $500, $300, $200. It is expected that twenty-five cars will make the start in this race. The speed trials, on the mile straightaway will be run on Tuesday, when an attempt will be made by Bruce-Brown, driving a Benz car, and Nazaro, driving Brookland's Fiat, to lower the world's record.

The Lowell Automobile Club has hit upon a novel method for financing the national automobile and motor cycle races to be held over the Merrimack Valley course at Lowell. In addition to the fund of $10,000 subscribed by the citizens, 100,000 general admission tickets have been placed on sale through a corps of young women employed in the cotton factories, shoe shops, department stores and elsewhere. The ten girls turning in the largest amount of money will not only see the races from a vantage point, but will enjoy a trip to Niagara Falls.

MELLODY TO BOX AUG. 24 AT ARMORY

Owing to the urgent request of the hungry members of the Armory A. A., the directors decided to hold a show on Aug 24 with an all-star card as the attraction.

The best local talent will get a chance to show how it stands in the popular estimation of the fans, as Matty Baldwin and Honey Mellody, once and always oldtime favorites, are to star in twelve round matches.

Mellody is down in Maine at present, but will join Matty Baldwin, who is already at Highland lake, getting down to shape.

The opponent selected for Mellody is Young Loughrey, the Quaker fighter who gave Tommy Quill such fierce battles in the club's ring. He will certainly prove whether Mellody is still to be considered a factor in the ring.

Baldwin is to meet Johnny Lynch of Cambridge, who has always been ready to step into the first class of the featherweights. Several other good looking bouts are being arranged for the same night.

SAILOR BURKE AND LEWIS BOX FRIDAY

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—For the past four years boxing promoters and managers have worked to bring Willie Lewis and Sailor Burke together. President William Gibson of the Fairmont Athletic Club has signed the two men for Friday evening, Aug. 13.

Both men are working hard at their respective training quarters in order to be in the finest possible condition. The "Sailor" is holding forth at Johnson's Roadhouse, and his work has been of such a strenuous nature that a hurry call had to be sent out for more sparring partners.

Up at Savin Rock, Conn., where Willie Lewis is training, there is also an air of confidence that is inspiring. Lewis said: "I am at the required weight right now, and if I don't go into the ring in splendid condition it won't be my fault. I will win from Burke sure, then I will go after Papke."

NOW FOR ONE THAT MAY CAUSE me to get a kick in the slats. Why do the professional life savers of Boston and vicinity not have an annual contest similar to the one in New York, when seventeen of the rescuers swam a race through Hell Gate? I am told that there are a lot of the local life savers who would shriek wildly for help if they fell overboard. I don't know who runs this life-saving game, but after reading the long list of names of people drowned every Sunday, I believe it would be a good idea to have a contest that would show the prowess of the men who are employed to fish boat rockers out of the dampness. Think it over.

THE ARMORY A. A. WILL SOON open and from then on during the Winter boxing will be one of the chief sports of Boston. There is no finer club in the country, nor one run by a squarer set of men, but I earnestly hope they will adopt the no-decision method of conducting the bouts. I haven't any doubt but what I will be told to turn over on my side or else wake up, for springing this, but it is a mortal cinch that it would help the game. Most of the refereeing for the past year was done by Jack Sheehan and Maffitt Flaherty, and far be it from me to question their integrity or judgment. The fact remains, however, that in a close bout there is always dissatisfaction over a decision. The clubs in New York and Philadelphia avoid this by giving no decisions, and the game is flourishing there, with never a word of scandal. For that matter, the breath of scandal has never touched the Armory Club, but a lot of dissatisfaction can be avoided by passing up the decisions, and I trust Mish Murray and the other gentlemen interested will think this over seriously before beginning their Fall entertainments.

THEY TELL ME THAT MY OLD friend, the tinhorn sport who runs the book on baseball, has been very much shy around the games since I offered to print his picture. His cappers and grafters are still at work, however, but the paying off is being done on the outside after the games are over. If I want that picture now, I suppose I will have to send a photographer up to Mason street, back of the Adams House, and snap him there when he is paying off his line of pony pikers at noontime. They've chased him away from Avery street, and it would be a good thing if they would chase him out of town.

STRANGE THAT THESE PRIZE fighters never take as a warning the example of those who have gone before. The gay life will get the best of the best of them. Now it is my old friend Bat Nelson who has fallen by the wayside and lost his title, despite my warning to him to avoid the alluring pleasures and excitements of a big city. The dispatches from New York tell how the Battler engaged in a hotly contested game of diablo with Annette Kellermann and then was foolish enough to put on the mitts with her. Needless to say that Bat, after the gruelling bout at diablo, went down for the count in the first round. The fair Annette simply swang with the left and then flang the right from the hip and it was all over. I trust Langford won't get up against that diablo game before his bout with Ketchel.

HAS ANYONE A SECOND-HAND catcher's mask he wants to sell cheaply? I want one to put on a waitress down at the little minor league restaurant where I feed my glad young face every noon time, except Tuesday (see cashier). You know the place. Down there where they cut the bread with a safety razor and put the hamburg steak and chicken croquette together by hydraulic pressure. Yesterday I found a nice fat piece of glass snugly concealed in a bunch of spaghetti and when I informed the feminine Ganymede that I had long ago quit the museums and side shows she, beautiful woman that she was, haughtily informed me that was a special dish for sport writers to cut their eye teeth on, and then threatened to bite me on the left biceps. This may not be sport dope, but it's the only chance I have to get even and I want the mask.

HERE IS A YOUNGSTER WITH A holler from Cambridge to Summer street. And I'm going to print it and then listen to the yell from the other side.

Straight Dope, Boston American:
The Colonials wish to protest the game they lost to the Claysvilles. We only claim to play amateurs but they worked a professional battery on us. We can beat them with their regular team and they know it. Yours truly,
SAMUEL BUTTS.
Winsor street, Cambridge.

All right, Sammy, we'll throw the game out, expunge it from our records and order another one played. Come on, you Claysvilles, let us know how it happened and have it over with.

TRUST ONE GOOD SPORT TO BOOST another, especially if the booster's name is Sheehan and the boostee is a Fallon. Here is one I got through the mail yesterday, and I'm wondering what it would read like if the triple play had been made by a Cohen or Levinsky.

Straight Dope, Boston American:
The triple play pulled off by Silk Fallon of Cambridge in the Canton game last Saturday was one of the fastest plays seen in this part for a long time. There were three on with a hit over the second bag. Fallon knocked it down, recovered it, tagged the man making third, touched second and caught the man at first, one of the fastest ever witnessed by the home team for years. Fallon is one grand performer. Yours very truly,
JAMES SHEEHAN.

I AM IN RECEIPT OF THE FOLLOWING invitation, and right here off comes my hat to President Tyrrell for that "grace the occasion" business.

Straight Dope, Boston American:
Enclosed find ticket for our first grand picnic and games to be held at New Downer Landing August 21. Hoping you will grace the occasion with your presence, I remain, Yours truly, T. H. TYRELL, President.
No. 1,031 Washington street, Boston.

Straight Dope, Boston American:
Dear Sir: Kindly decide the following play for us, as it came up in a game and will thank you for a correct decision: "There is no one out and there is a runner on first. The batter pops up a fly to second baseman a few feet from second base. The ball falls safely as the second baseman didn't reach it. The runner on first started for second, but seeing he could not make it returned to first, but was tagged out before reaching this base. The batter, in the meantime, reached first and was standing on first when the runner who was on first was being tagged out on the line." There is a diversion of opinion as to how the trap ball rule should apply here. Will appreciate a prompt answer. How many men are out, one or both? Sincerely,
Boston, Mass. W. C. ARMSTRONG.

Looks like an infield fly; batter is out when only one man is down. As runner was off base, he was also out. See section 8, rule 51.

Straight Dope, Boston American:
In a six-inning game, with two out and men on second and third, and the score a tie, the batter hits the ball to the shortstop. The man on second while advancing to third knocks the shortstop over and the man on third scores. A claims that the man who knocked the shortstop over is safe and the run is counted. B claims that the man who knocked the shortstop over is out and the score is still a tie. Who is right? J. M.

When a runner interferes with a player fielding the ball he is out. See section 8, rule 50.

Straight Dope, Boston American:
Dear Sir: Kindly state in your sporting column how often the B. A. A. boxing bouts are held, and is it give or take two pounds; also who is in charge. Thanking you in advance, CONSTANT READER.

MAY BAR AMERICAN HORSES IN CANADA

There has been more than a suspicion that ultimately American horses would be barred from the tracks of the Maritime Provinces and the opinion strongly prevails that such action may occur with the coming of another season.

The movement began with one or two whose horses were not quite good enough to win from the Yankees and seem to have had a gradual, steady growth. J. R. Cowans, who carried the largest racing stable maintained to help the sport, always said, "Let them come. If we haven't the horses now to win we will buy others," which he did. But Cowans is out of the game and not now in the councils of the horsemen.

Halifax has practically barred American horses for some time, and that city has perhaps the most ambitious meeting, one of nearly two weeks' duration.

Kirkwood, holder of the New England amateur championship, was high gun for the amateurs with 188.

$100,000 OFFERED FOR BIG BOUT

Berger to Meet Johnson in Chicago

SAPULPA, Okla., Aug. 10.—Contracts and a $100,000 offer by the Sapulpa Board of Trade have been forwarded to Richard K. Fox to capture the Jeffries-Johnson fight. The action has aroused a wave of indignation locally and throughout Oklahoma.

By IGOE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Sam Berger, the other end of the Jeffries combination, dropped in to-day and lost no time with:

"I have just received a wire from Ed Smith, sporting editor of the Chicago American, and he informs me that Johnson was on hand at his office and talked in a way that evidently meant that he wasn't strong in his belief that Jim really meant to meet him.

"Johnson told Smith that he would wait for some word from the Jeffries campaign, and in the event of his not hearing from us he would depart immediately for California and begin training for Ketchel, the task which occupies his mind just at present.

Jeff Won't Be "The Fall Guy."

"Now let me tell you, Johnson isn't going to make Jeffries the 'fall guy' in this affair. Our money is up, and yet we have no personal assurance that Johnson has placed his. This is what I intend to do. I will hop out to Chicago Wednesday or Thursday and will pin Mr. Johnson to some understanding. Jeffries has been given the worst of it because of this fellow, and we don't propose to stand for any more of it.

"I will make every fair attempt to arrange final terms. Such little matters as money, purse, side bets and all that should be very easy, as Jeff is prepared to let Johnson have very much his own way in the matter. Why, we may not even force the $10,000 side bet, for that matter, if Johnson fears to meet him along those lines.

"The thing that keeps promoters from bidding for the match is the air of uncertainty that surrounds the present state of affairs.

"Johnson Is to Blame."

"Once I see Johnson—and I intend to head him off before he leaves for California—I will prove to the public that it is Johnson, and not Jeff, who is holding up this thing.

"People will soon begin to scoff at the whole affair, and I will not stand to see Jeffries blamed for it. He means business, and we will now take the initiative and go see Mr. Johnson.

"He has been promising to come to us for so long that we have come to the conclusion that he doesn't want a fight with Jeff. We will stand for the humbling part of the thing and meet Mr. Johnson in Chicago on Wednesday or Thursday. Then you'll all see."

A Message From Johnson.

The public is certainly waiting to see something definite. To-day Jack Johnson sent me the following telegram from Chicago:

> I have no desire to make it appear as though I was avoiding the fight with Jeffries. Personally, I have made every effort to bring Jeffries or his assistants to some final understanding. I do not want to delay matters now, and if Mr. Berger will agree to be in Chicago before 8 p. m. Wednesday, at which time I leave for San Francisco, I will be glad to arrange a final agreement. JACK JOHNSON.

Boxing News in Brief Form

Battling Nelson says he will not be seen in the ring until October.

Jack McGuigan says Mickey Gannon's left hand is in perfect condition.

Squires will fight Lang again in November for the championship of Australia.

The National A. C. of Philadelphia will open on September 11 and Jack McGuigan says he has landed a bout which he was after all last season.

* * *

Dr. Cook of the University of Minnesota says James J. Jeffries can enter the ring in a month and that Gotch is the only man he has examined who is so well built as the champion.

Bob Fitzsimmons has a nephew in New Zealand who is declared to be a coming champion. He is seventeen years of age, stands 5 feet 11 inches and scales 10 stones 10 pounds (150 pounds).

Packy McFarland is after a match with Ad Wolgast. McFarland says he will give the Milwaukee man a battle if the weight is made 133 pounds two or three hours before the battle, a side wager of $1,000 to be made on the scrap.

Fighters like Nelson do not grow every day. The owner of the town of Hegewisch, Ill., turned down offers to fight Leach Cross, Tommy Murphy and Johnny Marto. He could have made $1,0000 out of each encounter.

* * *

Joe Thomas had tickets already bought for the coast when several offers came in and the big fellow decided to stick around a while. Joe will box around the East this Fall and then go home to Frisco, where he will go into business with his manager, Henry Buschardt.

Evidently Jim Buckley intends to get back into the fight game with all sails set. He has secured a twenty-one-year lease on the big, empty lot on Sixty-fifth street, New York, back of the present Sharkey Club. He purposes to build one of the biggest pavilions in town on the site, and intends that the Sharkey Club shall become one of the real roomy organizations of Gotham.

Abe Attell has notified the Fairmont A. C. of New York to arrange a ten-round bout for him with Battling Nelson before the Dane leaves that city. Attell fought a fifteen-round draw with Nelson in Frisco a year ago last March and has been anxious for another go ever since. Nelson never has been seen in a New York ring, which means that if he will agree to tackle Attell he can get a pretty fat plum for his end.

Mike Donovan, the middleweight boxer, is out with a challenge to meet Sam Langford, Stanley Ketchel, Billy Papke, or any middleweight in the game. Donovan has stated his willingness to wager any part of $5,000 that Ketchel, Langford or Papke cannot knock him out in twenty rounds.

Marvin Hart has again announced his retirement from the ring. At Terre Haute, Ind., recently, he lost to Mike Schreck on a foul. The match, which a few years ago would have set the country on ears, was scarcely noted outside of Terre Haute. It marked the reunion, however, of Schreck and our old managerial friend, Billy Hogan. Billy solemnly avers, as becomes a good and faithful manager, that Mike has "cut out" his strange ideas on the value of an exclusively beef diet, that he has worked himself back in shape, and is now ready to meet any of them.

What will the betting be in the Langford-Ketchel bout? Several old-timers were arguing the point last night, and they agreed finally that Ketchel would enter the ring at about 10 to 9. "If this fight had been proposed several days after the last O'Brien fight," said one, "it would have sent the cowboy in favorite at odds of 10 to 4. The bad fight made by Ketchel against Papke has lowered the price somewhat, and 10 to 9 looks just about right." It would be a strange feature of the contest, indeed, for Langford should be made favorite over the champion of the world. It would be without precedent.

Billy McCarney writes an interesting letter from the coast. Bill states that he is matchmaker for several clubs there. It was he who arranged for the Hyland-Frayne bout, and to add to the interest of the affair he has secured the services of Monte Attell and Percy Cove. Cove is the freak of the ring, standing fully 6 feet 10 and tipping the scales at 115. He's almost as tall as Fitzsimmons. McCarney adds that Young Corbett has purchased a roadhouse on the Ocean Beach boulevard, the same hard road he trudged as a champion when preparing for the tonsorial hair of a few years back in Frisco. Jimmy Rothwell, his brother, is manager of the place. Corbett seems fixed at last.

George Alger, the little Cambridge boxer, should be a sensation in his class this winter, as Bob Warner has arranged some good matches for him all over the East.

RED SOX MANAGER AFTER A CATCHER

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 10.—Manager Lake of the Boston Americans made a cash offer for Catcher Konnick of the locals, but it was not enough and Manager Kittredge refused it. This is Konnick's first year in professional ball, and he has developed into the best in the New York State League. Local critics believe Manager Lake will annex Konnick and will meet the figures.

CALIFORNIA LEAGUE IN BAD.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Aug. 10.—The State Baseball League has been badly crippled by desertions and dismissals from the Sacramento and Stockton clubs, and local sportsmen believe that the league will collapse before the end of the week. Most of the Sacramento State League players are seeking positions with the Pacific Coast League and Eastern Leagues. There is similar dissatisfaction in the Stockton camp, and it is freely predicted here that the two teams will disband immediately.

GRIFFO IN HOCK AGAIN.

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—Albert Griffo, at one time feather-weight champion prize fighter of the world, who was released from the Bridewell Saturday, is back there again for the thirteenth time.

Griffo was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct. Being unable to pay a fine of $15 he was sent to the Bridewell.

"Whiskey has got the best of you, hasn't it?" Judge Gemmell asked the prisoner.

"Yes," Griffo said. "I couldn't resist the temptation."

"MAC" GETS FAST HORSE.

Telemachus (2.30), by Onward Silver, will beat 2.10 right away. He was second in 2.10¼ and right there. Owner Shuler has turned him over to "Lou" McDonald.

"K. O." BROWN IS BETTER THAN JONES

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—"K. O." Brown outpointed Willie Jones in a slap-bang bout at the Olympic A. C. For ten rounds the pair of bantams stood toe to toe and slugged away for all they were worth. In the eighth Jones struck Brown rather low, but he did it unintentionally, and the blow did not bother Brown much.

In the ninth and tenth sessions the tow-headed little "K. O." began to make good use of his left swing, and his work in these two rounds gave him the better of the contest.

LUMLEY OUT OF GAME.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—Harry Lumley, manager of the Brooklyns, may be out of the game for the remainder of the season. He is suffering from a misplaced tendon in his right shoulder, and to-day decided to visit "Bonesetter" Reese at Youngstown, O. The injury was sustained in Saturday's game, when the right fielder made a snap throw of a base hit into his territory.

GOODMAN WAS GOOD.

TROY, Aug. 10.—In a ten-round battle at the Grogan A. C. Dan Goodman of Philadelphia and Ben Douglas of New York put up a terrific battle. Both men went in to make short work of it, slashing right and left for the full ten rounds. In the eighth Goodman had his man all but gone, but the ninth and tenth rounds were finished with honors about even.

MARGARET O. IS RIPE.

Margaret O. (2.05¼) was taken to the Lexington track recently from Patchen Wilkes Farm and turned the famous oval in 2.07¼, with the last half in 1.00¾, and the final quarter in 29½ seconds.

RICH EARL TO TRY FOR POLO CUP

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—England does not intend to let the International Polo Cup, won by the American Meadow Brook team recently, remain long in America without an effort to recapture it.

The Earl of Lonsdale, the Duke of Westminster and the Duke of Roxburghe held a conference recently and discussed plans for sending a team to America next season to retake the cup. No defeat in sport for years past has so humiliated the Englishmen as this. Polo is almost as much the English national game as cricket.

Lord Lonsdale was formerly a polo enthusiast and still maintains his interest in the game. He is enormously wealthy and, with his two associates, will, if necessary, finance the sending of a team across.

It will be a fine spectacle for Meadow Brook to see a polo team coached by an Earl and two Dukes try to recapture the cup in 1910. P. W. Nickalls of the defeated British team says:

"The Americans can hit straighter than we can. In Winter we hunt. They play tennis and racquet. There is no better practice for polo driving. If they ever get the ball within fifty yards of the goal, they hit a goal if they can get a stick at the ball. They had the best ponies also, and their lot at Hurlingham was worth between $50,000 and $75,000. When all has been said, the Americans are the best sportsmen. I don't care what you take—cricket, rowing, polo; I've done most—they are the best sportsmen in the world."

ROWING BOOM PROMISED AT RIVER BASIN

Although for the first time in many years Boston failed to figure in the winning, at the annual regatta of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen, which finished at Detroit Saturday, there is a decided boom promised in rowing around Boston.

The completion of the Charles River basin, gives Boston the finest racing course in the country, and when the new houses being built by the clubs, are finished, the facilities will be unexcelled. Perfect opportunities to witness the sport from both banks of the basin will be certain to bring out the record-breaking crowds which were famous in Boston years ago.

Racing and even practice on the Charles River were made practically impossible during the building of the walls, and the dredging. This with the distruction of the shore boat houses and the moving of the floating ones far up the river caused interest of scullers and sweephandlers as well as club members to lag. Next season all this will be changed.

The victories of the New York Athletic Club's scullers and crews will do much to start a boom around Boston. New York and Boston have always been rivals, and the clean sweep of the winged-foot oarsmen, as well as oarsmen of other New York clubs, will make the Boston oarsmen of the past as well as the followers of the game get busy. There will be a canvass of every club, and all oarsmen of the past who are able will get into condition and there will be a scientific start made to develop new material into winners.

Education in Kindness, Man's Greatest Need

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

Copyright, 1909, by American-Journal-Examiner

"Pennsylvania has recently placed herself in line with other States in the matter of progressive legislation affecting the horse. An act went into effect in May, making it unlawful to offer for sale or to sell diseased, lame or worn-out horses. Provisions are made for its enforcement by policemen, constables or agents of any anti-cruelty society incorporated in the State. This law was secured by the united efforts of the societies in Pennsylvania, working through the Federated Humane Societies. The first prosecution and conviction under the new law was made May 12, by an agent of the Pennsylvania S. P. C. A. Exchange."

THE humane thought is growing; and in time the men and women who are thoughtless, cruel or neglectful toward animals will be numbered with the criminally insane and will be placed under medical treatment.

But before that time comes there is a great work, to be done in educating the masses to think on this subject.

Travelling in Southern Italy, France, Morocco, Spain and Egypt, one becomes sick at soul to see the inhuman treatment given to wretched horses, donkeys and mules, those patient and faithful animals upon whom the people so largely depend in all their business ventures.

Selfish Pride of the Rich

I saw in Naples 2,000 implements of torture which the S. P. C. A., under the leadership of splendid Leonard Hawksly, had taken away from the coachmen in that city. At the same time the men who had used these terrible inventions were educated on the subject, the profit to be found in treating their animals decently being made the prominent thought.

But while ignorance lies at the bottom of almost all the cruelty in those lands, here in America, and over in England, there is a more difficult phase of it to to overcome, in the selfishness and utter lack of feeling of the idle rich pleasure-seekers.

A letter recently received from a worker for humanitarianism explains the point under consideration. Here is an extract from it:

> I very much desire to enlist you in my cause in behalf of the pigeons which are to be ruthlessly maimed and killed this Winter season of 1909 and 1910 at Palm Beach, Florida, by the atrocious cruelty of the Florida Gun Club.
> I have been an eyewitness many times to the sufferings of these birds and I have wept tears of sorrow for their helpless condition.
> The Florida Gun Club is composed of men, generally speaking, guests of The Breakers and R. P. hotels.
> The pigeons are raised usually in the Carolinas. They get good treatment until they reach Jacksonville, Fla., where they are out of the jurisdiction of the laws of the Carolinas and Georgia. In Florida care is relaxed, and when the gun club needs them they are taken to the grounds.
> If the bird taken from the crop is too frightened to fly, its neck is twisted, and it is then thrown into a barrel, fluttering, to die a horrible death.
> The next time comes in turn till one flies, when it is promptly shot and killed or maimed, eyes put out, pinions and legs broken and left dying, suffering earth's mortal terrors and agonies. In dying strife in glade, field and woodland you'll find them.
> Can't you do something? I have heard the Audubon Society and Humane Society of Florida tried to get a bill through the Legislature, and the bill was killed by the millionaires interested in that club.

On a Par With Bull Fights.

This letter speaks volumes. Despite the disgust it arouses in all sane minds there is, at the same time, something inexpressibly pitiful at the thought of human beings who have had every advantage of money, and ofttimes of birth, being so like mental paupers that they find distraction in such a pastime as pigeon shooting.

There should be united action on the part of all humane societies to pass bills preventing these pigeon shoots. They are little less civilized than bull fights, and quite as corrupting to the growing generation.

They belittle manhood and womanhood; they encourage the cruel and selfish impulses of human nature; they dwarf the mind and lower the standards of right living. Other healthier, kinder and more interesting sports will be found to take the place of this despicable and monstrous pastime once it is made impossible and unfashionable.

Unite and concentrate on the purpose to drive it from America. It can be done. More wonderful reforms have been brought about by concentrated action. Stop pigeon shooting in America.

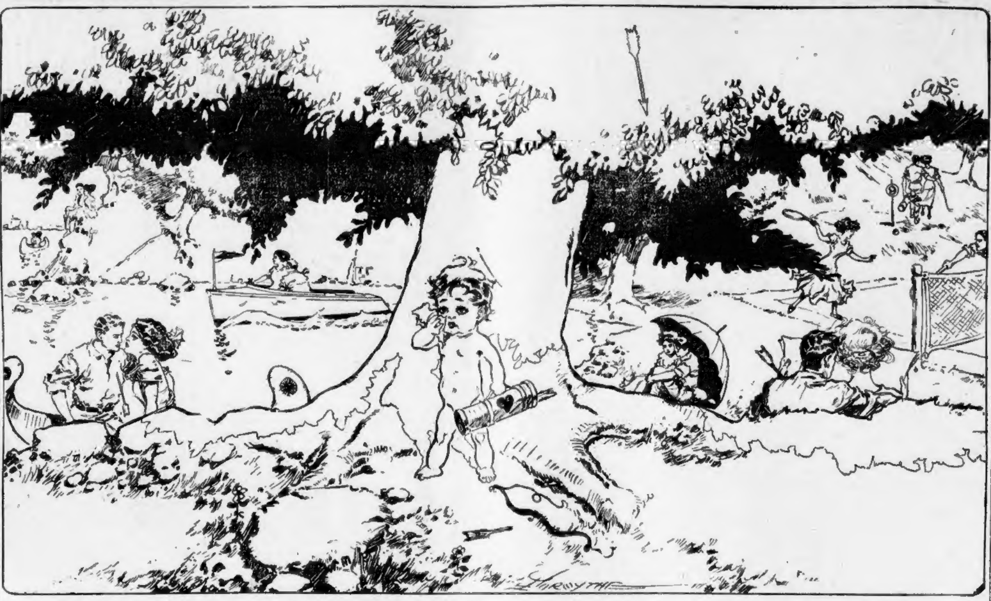
CHASE & SANBORN'S HIGH GRADE TEAS & COFFEES

HIS VERY BUSY DAY

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX



"And poor Cupid is so fagged out these days keeping pace with the mortals, who seem to become more strenuous the warmer the weather gets"

"HEIGHO!" yawned Cupid, and rubbed his pink fists deep into his sleepy eyes, "here have I been sound asleep with the sun up, and this is my busy day.

"I've my bow and quiver to clean, and I've hardly an arrow left; it does take so many to keep me going at this time of year, and what with picnics and sailing parties, and the full moon, I've hardly a minute to rest or to keep my outfit in order.

"Let me see," he mused, as he deftly polished and rubbed away at his shining bow and arrows, "let me see, what all have I to attend to to-day?

"Bless me, I've a deal to do! There are some love affairs that must be encouraged, and some that must be stopped. I find the young people don't suit each other, and it would never do to let them mate.

"There is one man who is going to propose too soon unless I give him the tip that the girl does not know her mind yet. If he's patient he'll win her, but if he is in too great a hurry he'll lose her.

Tra-la, tra-law," he sang, happily, "'tis love that makes the world go round."

He paused and, crinkling his absurd baby brow into tiny wrinkles, frowned thoughtfully, "I wish I knew just how to hurry along that fellow who has been calling on that pretty littl girl for nearly two years. He loves her, and she is eating her heart out in suspense and onging for him to speak, but he is the kind that is content to let things drift.

"I'll stir him up a bit by seeing the girl meets a few nice men who will not be so slow as he," and a look of naughty mischief stole over Dr. Cupid's chubby face.

"There is a girl I must attend to also. She is as sweet as a rose at heart, but she is spoiling her chances by putting on a would-be-smart worldly manner, and it frightens the young men away.

"This arrow," and he sharpened the point viciously, "is for the heart of a man who has trifled with the love of half a dozen nice girls. To-day I'm going to send him out in a canoe with a girl who will be his match and make him suffer as she has made others. I hate a flirt—man or girl.

"Well, that's done," laying aside his quiver filled with brand-new and shining arrows. "Now, let us have a look at my engagements for the day. Deary me! What a list; what a list, to be sure?

"This morning I'm going to a tennis tournament. There are a certain man and a girl whom I am very anxious to have meet. They are absolutely suited, and if I don't look after them nobody will."

"This last with an air of great importance—for Cupid has no small idea of his own importance, you must know.

"This afternoon I am going to steer a motor boat for a young couple who have had endless troubles and misunderstandings, and I mean to steer their little craft into happy, peaceful waters.

"To-night is the full of the moon, and perhaps I won't be busy! It fairly makes me dizzy to think of all I have to do before I can rest this night."

Then, with a saucy twist to his curly head, he adjusted his weapons of warfare and went swinging down lovers' lane, and the song he sang was "Oh ho, oh ho, 'tis love that makes the world go round."

THE PERFUME OF THE LADY IN BLACK

SYNOPSIS.

THE chief characters in "The Perfume of the Lady in Black" figured in "The Mystery of the Yellow Room," a detective story by Gaston Leroux, which was published serially in the BOSTON AMERICAN just prior to this story. Mlle. Mathilde Stangerson had been strangely attacked in her room, and Rouletabille, a young reporter, and Frederick Larsan, a noted Paris detective, were sent to investigate the mystery. Rouletabille proved that Larsen had made the attack because he was violently in love with Mlle. Stangerson.

When she was found after having been choked and after a pistol shot had been fired, it was necessary to break in the door of her room, yet her assailant was nowhere in sight and there were no means by which he could have escaped.

Rouletabille showed when Robert Darzac, the suitor of Mlle. Stangerson, was placed on trial, charged with having made the attack, that Mlle. Sangerson had found Larsan in her room, that he had tried to plead with her, and that he had then choked her. She did want her father to know of it, because she had, a number of years previously, eloped with Larsen; had found that he was a noted criminal known as Ballmeyer, and had left him.

To hide the affair, she locked herself in her room. Later she was seized with a nightmare and discharged a revolver near her bedside. This resulted in the breaking in of the door of The Yellow Room.

Mlle. Stangerson still maintained secrecy in order to hide the details of her escapade with Larsan, or Ballmeyer, from her father.

While Darzac was on trial, Rouletabille appeared in court, forced Larsan to flee and then revealed his solution of the mystery of The Yellow Room. Later Larsan was reported to have lost his life at sea.

In "The Perfume of the Lady in Black," Mlle. Stangerson married Robert Darzac. Rouletabille disappeared after the ceremony and the bride sent him a note. A man named Brignolles arouses the suspicions of the writer.

CHAPTER II.

IN returning alone from the station I could not help feeling some surprise at the singular sensation of sadness which oppressed me, and of the cause of which I had not the slightest idea.

Since the affair at Versailles, with the details of which my existence had become so strangely intermingled, I had enjoyed the closest intimacy with Professor Stangerson, his daughter and Robert Darzac. I ought to have been completely happy on the day of this wedding, which seemed in every way so satisfactory. I wondered whether the unexplained absence of the young reporter did not account in some measure for my strange depression.

Rouletabille had been treated by the Stangersons and by M. Darzac as their deliverer. And especially since Mathilde had left the sanitarium, in which, for several months, her shattered nervous system had needed and received the most assiduous care—since the daughter of the famous professor had been able to understand the extraordinary part which the boy had played in the drama that, without his help, would inevitably have ended in the bitterest grief for all those whom she loved—since she had read by the light of her restored reason the short-hand reports of the trial, at which Rouleatbille appeared at the last moment like some hero of a miracle—she had surrounded the youngster with an affection little less than maternal.

She interested herself in everything which concerned him; she begged for his confidence; she wanted to know more about him than I knew, and, perhaps, even more than he knew himself. She had shown an unobtrusive but strong curiosity in regard to the mystery of his birth, of which all of us were ignorant, and on which the young man had kept silence with a sort of savage pride.

Although he fully realized the tender friendship which the poor soul felt for him, Rouletabille maintained his reserve and in his dealings with her affected a formal politeness which astonished me, coming from the boy whom I had known so exuberant, so whole-hearted, so strong in his likes and dislikes.

More than once I had mentioned the matter to him, and he had answered me in an evasive manner, laying great stress, however, upon his sentiments of devotion for "a lady whom he esteemed beyond anyone in the world, and for whom he would have been ready to sacrifice his all, if fate or fortune had given him anything to sacrifice for anyone." He would take strange whims at such times.

Poor little fellow! Ah, if I had known! How I reproach myself in the light of the present for having judged him with too little patience!

Thus, sad at heart, assailed by premonitions which I tried in vain to drive away, I returned from the railway station at Lyons, pondering over the humorous fantasies, the strange caprices of Rouletabille during the last two years. But nothing that entered my mind could have warned me of what had happened, or still less have explained it to me.

Where was Rouletabille? I went to his rooms in the Boulevard St. Michael, telling myself that if I did not find him there, I could, at least, leave Mme. Darzac's letter. What was my astonishment when I entered the building to see my own servant carrying the bag. I asked him to tell me what he was doing and why, and he replied that he did not know—that I must ask M. Rouletabille.

The boy had been, as it turned out, while I had been seeking him everywhere (except, naturally, in my own house), in my apartments in the Rue de Rivoli. He had ordered my servant to take him to my rooms, and had made the man fill a valise, with everything necessary for a trip of three or four days. Then he had directed the man to bring the bag in about an hour to the hotel in the "Boul' Mich."

A Vacation Trip.

I made one bound up the stairs to my friend's bed chamber, where I found him packing in a tiny hand satchel an assortment of toilet articles, a change of linen and a night shirt. Until this task was ended I could obtain no satisfaction from Rouletabille, for in regard to the little affairs of everyday life he was extremely particular, and, despite the modesty of his means, succeeded in living very well, having a horror of everything that could be called bohemian.

He finally deigned to announce to me that "we were going to take our Easter vacation," and that, since I had nothing to do, and, the Epoch had granted him a three days' holiday, we couldn't be better than to go and take a short rest at the seaside. I made no reply, so angry was I at this high-handed method, and all the more because I had not the least desire to contemplate the beauties of the ocean upon one of the abominable days of early Spring, which for two or three weeks every year makes me regret the Winter.

But my silence did not disturb Rouletabille in the least, and taking my valise in one hand, his satchel in the other, he hustled me down the stairs and pushed me into a hack which awaited us before the door of the hotel. Half an hour later we found ourselves in a first-class carriage of the Northern Railway, which was carrying us toward Trepot by way of Amiens. As we entered the station he said:

"Why don't you give me the letter you have for me?"

I gazed at him in amazement. He had guessed that Mme. Darzac would be greatly grieved at not seeing him before her departure, and would write to him. He had been positively malicious. I answered:

"Because you don't deserve it."

And I gave him a good scolding, to which he interposed no defence. He did not even try to excuse himself, and that made me angrier than ever. Finally, I handed him the letter. He took it, looked at it and inhaled its fragrance. As I sat looking at him curiously, he frowned, trying, as I could see, to repress some strong feeling. But he could no longer hide it from me when he turned toward the window, his forehead against the glass, and became absorbed in a deep study of the landscape. His face betrayed the fact that he was suffering profoundly.

"Well?" I said. "Aren't you going to read the letter?"

"No," he replied. "Not here. When we are yonder."

We arrived at Trepot in the blackest night that I remember, after six hours of interminable trip and in wretched weather. The wind from the sea chilled us to the bone and swept over the deserted quay with weird sounds of lamentation. We met only a watchman, wrapped in his cloak and hood, who paced the banks of the canal. Not a cab, of course. A few gas jets, trembling in their glass globes, reflected their light in the mud puddles formed by the falling rain.

We heard in the distance the clicking noise of the little wooden shoes of some Trepot woman who was out late. That we did not fall into a huge watering trough was due to the fact that we were warned by the hoofs of a stray horse, which passed that way to drink. I walked behind Rouletabille, who made his way with difficulty in this damp obscurity. However, he appeared to know the place, for we finally arrived at the door of a queer little inn, which remained open during the early spring for the fishermen. Rouletabille demanded supper and a fire, for we were half starved and half frozen.

Rouletabille's Mission.

"Ah, now, my friend," I said, when we were settled after a fashion. "Will you condescend to explain to me what we have come to look for in this place, aside from rheumatism and pneumonia?"

But Rouletabille at this moment coughed and turned toward the fire to warm his hands again.

"Oh, yes," he answered. "I am going to tell you. We have come to look for the perfume of the Lady in Black."

My Wife's Gone to the Country. Hurray! Hurray!

New Words to the Old Melody.
By IRVING BERLIN

I.

BROWN thought of one Miss Morgan,
he knew before he wed,
So quick he wrote a letter to the pretty miss, which read:
So quick he wrote a letter to the pretty
miss, which read:
"Remember the appointment, I missed five years ago?
Well, make it, say, to-morrow night, I'll keep it now I know

CHORUS.

"My wife's gone to the country—Hurray
—Hurray!
She thought it best—I need the rest—
that's why she went away;
She took the children with her—Hurray—
Hurray!
So never fear—I'm with you, dear—my wife's gone away."

II.

His servant girl soon left him, so Browney advertised.

MY WIFE'S IN THE COUNTRY!

Next morning came another girl who seemed a trifle wise.
She said, "I'll take the job, sir, but first I must make clear,
I like to dress up now and then." Brown answered, "Never fear."

CHORUS.

"My wife's gone to the country—Hurray—
Hurray!
She thought it best—I need the rest—
that's why she went away;
She took the children with her—Hurray—
Hurray!
When you look fine, I'll look for mine—
my wife's gone away."

He read of Teddy Roosevelt, way out in Jungle town;
The shooting stunts of Teddy's kind of

He wondered if his wifey was anywhere near there,
And wondered if Old Teddy would mistake
her for a bear.

CHORUS.

"My wife's gone to the country—Hurray—

She took the children with her—Hurray—
Hurray!
I hope his eyesight isn't bad—my wife's

The Gypsy Woman

By ETHEL CLIFFORD.

THE gypsy woman
Lives on the moor;
She sleeps in a tent
With a curtained door.

Low is her dwelling.
And hard her bed;
But the stars at night
Are a crown for her head.

Rough is her greeting
From all that's human,
But the morning smiles
At the gypsy woman.

The wind is her harper,
And brings from afar
His song of wooing,
And shouts of war.

On the printed page
She need never look;
The changing sky
Is her Holy Book.

She knows not the call
Of church-bells ringing;
The falling rain
Makes sweeter singing.

And the voice of the lark
At morn and even
Is a key to open
The gate of heaven.

The Signs of Love—as They Show in Many

ARTICLE No. 1.

By DOROTHY DIX.

A CORRESPONDENT asks me thes two questions:

Does a person know when h or she is in love?

What are the signs by which he or sh can tell when he or she is in love?

Goodness knows, I don't. The individua who could answer this query and discove some infallible test by which men an women could tell the real state of thei hearts before they got married, instea of afterward, would be a benefactor to th human race. Most of the matrimonia trouble in the world comes from peopl having made mistakes on this subject, an having diagnosed the hectic flush and chill and fever of a passing attack of fancy fo a fatal case of love.

Weaving Fancies Not the Test.

Tens of thousands of couples wake up every year after their plunge into the sea of matrimony, only to find out that they were deceived in their sentiments toward each other, and the awakening is the bitterness of death. Professor Munsterberg has invented a machine so delicate that it reveals whether a person is telling the truth or not. Let us hope that the famous psychologist will go further and devise an instrument that will differentiate genuine love thrills from false, and thus enable us to ascertain whether we are really hard hit for keeps or merely touched.

In the mean time, we can only blunder along and apply what crude tests we can to our hearts. Of course, the commonly accepted sign of love is an ability to see a perfectly commonplace man or woman surrounded by a halo of romance that turns him or her into a demigod or an angel. This is accompanied by an insatiable desire for the presence of the party of the second part, and an ability to grow pea green with jealousy if said party of the second part shows anybody else even common politeness.

So far so good, but this test of love is inadequate, because every man has felt that way about half a dozen pretty women, and every woman has had similar symptoms in regard to more than one agreeable man. Moreover, you can yearn that way over an automobile, or a horse, or a new set of golf sticks, or any new toy that greatly diverts you for the time being.

The poet goes a step farther and says: "Unless you can muse in a crowd all day on an absent face that has fixed you, then never say that you love."

This seems almost an inadequate test to me, because anybody can muse on an absent face and weave about it charms and attractions. It is the ability to muse on the present face without wearying that is a real test of affection.

Perhaps there is no surer sign of love than just the mere fact that we can spend hours upon hours in the company of some individual of the opposite sex without getting bored.

No Suspicion in Sincerity.

Another symptom of love in your system is that the world suddenly changes. Sunshine is brighter, the moon bigger, the stars more radiant, the rain less wet. You unexpectedly discover that you are a much nobler person than you thought you were, and that you are just sloshing over with the milk of human kindness.

You help a crippled old woman across the street; you bestow alms on beggars and pat little children with sticky fingers on the head instead of giving the dirty brats a wide leeway and a scowl, as has been your wont. You take to going to church and are full of piety because the waters of love have overflowed your soul and washed it clean for a little while, at least.

Don't marry on the jealousy brand of love. It will be bad for you, and it will be, oh! so horribly, horribly bad for the unfortunate person who marries you.

But we will discuss this subject further to-morrow.

HICKS BEWILDERED BY CHOWDER EXPERTS AND THEIR RECIPES

Did you ever know that cooking defies mathematics for combinations? There are eight different ingredients that figure in an ordinary clam chowder, and any mathematician can easily tell how many different combinations can result from eight numbers—but not when he is doping out clam chowder. John T. Hicks, who asked the BOSTON AMERICAN to find him a good recipe for that delectable dish, knows this by experience now from the deluge of replies that have followed his inquiry. New England housewives—and men, too—have tried to help out Mr. Hicks, who offered $5 for the best recipe he could get, and they have sent in more recipes than a mathematician could ever calculate. The BOSTON AMERICAN offers a second prize of $5 in the contest, just to make Mr. Hicks a busier and a wiser man. Here are some of the recipes submitted:

SAYS THIS IS THE BEST EVER.

This clam chowder is the best ever. Shock out one-half peck of live clams, take out the black intestines, separate the tough from the soft and chop the former after cutting off the nightcaps and rubber necks; drain and strain the water; into a frying pan put one-half pound of fat salt pork, cut into small dice and fry slowly till nice brown; draw out the scraps and add four large onions chopped not too fine to the fat to brown; slice six good-sized potatoes, put one layer into a six-quart kettle, then a few onions and also clams (chopped ones); salt and pepper to suit, then more potatoes till all is used. Let come to a boil, then add soft part of clams, also juice, and one can or more of unsweetened cream.

MRS. LLEWELLYN GOULDING.
No. 629 Temple street, Whitman.

ORIGINAL CLAM CHOWDER.

Here is the original clam chowder. Fry six slices of fat salt pork till crisp, then chop fine, put back in bottom of the pot you are to use; take about fifty good-sized clams, six good-sized onions, chopped very fine, and six potatoes cut in small cubes. first wash your clams and put in kettle to boil with one coffee cup of water, and when the shells are open chop the clams fine, saving the clam water for the chowder; fry the onions till tender but not brown, and then put in with the onions, potatoes, clams and clam water and pork scraps and add three pints of boiling water; boil all together, and when the potatoes are cooked the chowder is done. Add a quart of good rich milk and seasoning; thicken with rolled crackers or powdered cracker crumbs. Add one-half can of tomatoes, if liked, or one can of cream corn is sometimes liked for a change.

A NANTASKET RECIPE.

To prepare grandma's Nantasket chowder, slice a quart of potatoes thin, use six slices of fat pork, three good sized onions, sliced, a quart of shucked clams, washed, a quart of hot milk, two teaspoons of salt and pepper. Brown the pork in the bottom of kettle you plan to make the chowder in, add a layer of potatoes, a layer of onions and then a layer of clams. Put a little salt and pepper on each layer until all is used, then add a pint of boiling water and simmer fifteen minutes. Split a dozen crackers dipped in cold water, spread with a little butter and lay in dish you will serve it in. After simmering fifteen minutes add quart of hot milk in which two large spoonfuls of flour has been thickened, then let stand five minutes to blend with chowder and pour on crackers already prepared and serve.

MRS. CHARLES H. DANFORTH.
No. 96 Gilman street, Winter Hill.

HER WAY OF MAKING IT.

Here is my way to make clam chowder. Take one quart clams when steamed, one quart potatoes, two slices pork cut in dice, three onions sliced; put onions and pork in kettle with quart water, let boil, while they are cooking, steam clams and peel potatoes, put potatoes in with pork and onions, let cook while you take clams from shells. When potatoes are done put in four whole crackers, cover all with water, let cook until crackers are soft, then put in clams and clam water, stir and serve, pepper and salt.

MRS. JULIA WHITE.
Box 10, Brant Rock, Mass.

ENOUGH FOR EIGHT.

I want to add another recipe to the New England variety already submitted. Wash half a peck of freshly dug clams in sea water, if obtainable, and put them over the fire in a kettle nearly full of cold water. Let come to a boil and remove clams from the shells. As each clam is shocked, cut off the tough head with a sharp knife. Simmer several slices of salt pork in the bottom of the kettle, then put in a layer of sliced potatoes, one of sliced onions, one of clams, sprinkle over with crackers broken in fine pieces and repeat in this order until materials are used. Lastly pour in the water in which the clams were boiled. Cook briskly for half or three-quarters of an hour. Before serving put in some half crackers and a cupful of cold milk and season to taste. This will serve eight people.

MRS. C. G. JORDAN.
No. 155 Allen street, East Braintree.

IF HE ONLY TRIED THIS!

If Mr. Hicks tried this chowder he would want no other. First drain the water from one quart of clams, separate bellies from the head, take the black dirt from the bellies, cut black snouts from head, place on separate bowls, chop heads fine. Put in one quart of water with liquid and boil one hour. In the meantime, try out on spider one-quarter pound of fat, salt pork, cut in dice, then cook well in fat three medium-sized onions (don't burn); strain into boiling clams, pour a little boiling water on drainer so as to get all the flavor. Add teaspoon of salt and spoon of pepper, then add eight medium-sized potatoes, cut in large dice-shaped pieces. Have boiling the liquid drained from one can of good tomatoes, pour in chowder when potatoes are almost done, and when all boils up add clams. Thicken juice with a tablespoon of cornstarch in some cold water. Flavor with a little more salt and pepper if necessary. Instead of tomatoes add 1 quart of scalded milk if liked. Better serve with some hard bread crackers on bowl.

MRS. J. N. ST. JOHN.
No. 105 John street, Providence.

NEW YORK STYLE

Take fifty quohaugs or hard-shelled clams, chopped fine, six onions sliced and fried until almost burnt in one-half pound of chopped salt pork, one quart of thinly sliced potatoes, one-half can tomatoes, four quarts of water and season to taste. Boil gently for several hours and before serving break in several hard water crackers. This recipe was procured from the chef of a famous New York hotel a good many years ago.

FIFTY MEN IN HUNT FOR RUNAWAY COW

Fifty men scoured the Middlesex Fells in a vain effort to restore to the possession of John Golden of Jerome street, Medford, a runaway cow and win a reward of $20. The cow was new to Golden, and was warranted sound, of good disposition and a good milker. Two hours after he put the animal out to pasture she was missing. In search of freedom she took to the Middlesex Fells, and is there yet. Several times the cow was surrounded, but each time charged through the cordon of her pursuers. Golden is disgusted with his bargain.

A FEW PEOPLE DON'T USE AMERICAN WANT ADS

For the same reason that modern methods were once scoffed at by our forefathers, yet, in spite of prejudice, progress has its way. The successful majority employ the "WANT AD WAY" to secure tenants, or buyers, or help, or employment. They employ the AMERICAN, realizing that it is the only paper which will carry their message to nearly all of the people.

What Do You Think Will Be One Day THE GREAT LABOR SAVING DEVICE?

It Won't Be Machinery, or Harnessing the Tides, or Taking Power Direct from the Sun

Copyright, 1909, by American-Journal-Examiner

From the beginning of our little lives on this earth we human beings have struggled to make our own feeble bodies MORE EFFICIENT.

We have been trying for a hundred thousand years to do more and more with our hands and brains, trying to "save labor," which means to make labor more productive. And we are still trying.

Man is born the feeblest of all animals. He is naked, hairless, toothless. He cannot walk or talk or see or hear. (You know, of course, that a new-born baby is blind and deaf, and that the ignorant young mother who is afraid you will wake her new-born baby ought to know that firing off a cannon would not wake it.)

At his BIRTH man is the most defenceless and feeble of animals. And as an adult, without devices for saving labor and increasing power, he is the feeblest, most helpless animal, with the possible exception of the sloth.

The chicken three minutes old can scratch for worms, the little turtle just born walks down the sand to the water, the giraffe has his long neck to enable him to get leaves from the trees, the rhinoceros has his thick hide, the tiger has claws, the deer has speed and keen sight.

Man has ONLY THOUGHT. He is working with his one tool—thought—adding year by year to the wonders of achievement. The lightning that frightened him moves his street cars.

Once he threw his babies to the crocodile to propitiate that "great god." Now he takes the great god's skin and makes it into a valise for the traveling salesman.

Men have bowed down to monkeys, oxen, birds, all kinds of idols, to fire, wind and innumerable little red devils and big, fierce gods—born in their own ignorant, superstitious brains.

But steadily they have been making useful valises out of their former gods; the wind that frightened them now pumps water for their suburban homes; man at last has become, in a very primitive, childish, imperfect way, a THINKING BEING. He knows that he is a little bit of a CONSTRUCTIVE, THINKING MICROBE, fastened by the power of gravity to a ball of earth eight thousand miles in diameter.

He no longer looks at his own little piece of ground; his view is not confined to this little round earth. He is the master of the earth, and he is already a timid, feeble, inquiring child, seeking bravely for knowledge among the millions of suns and worlds in the distance.

Man, only a few tens of thousands of years ago a big-jawed animal, eating the marrow of the thighbone of his neighbor, has certainly done wonderful things.

Most wonderful of all is the work that he has done in the way of "saving labor." Once he had to run all day to catch an animal—and the animal often caught him. Then he shot it with a bow and arrow; now he shoots it with a rifle. A little later he will be too civilized to shoot it at all.

The work that could not be done by the muscle of a hundred thousand men is done now by one man pressing a button and starting machinery.

You can see in dozens of great buildings huge machines working automatically, supplying power when it is needed, an educated man sits among the machines reading his book, watching those machines do work that could not be done by ten thousand men.

But, readers, just as we have found all those labor saving devices in our own brains, so we have still to find, and we shall find, the greatest and best labor saving device IN OUR BRAINS, OUR CONSCIENCES.

The great labor saving device of the future will be HONESTY, the product of education and knowledge.

They tell you that the earth will be over-populated, and that those engaged in agriculture will not be able to feed the others soon. A foolish mistake. Millions of men are wasting their effort BECAUSE WE ARE NOT YET HONEST.

Honesty will free millions upon millions of human beings from unnecessary, monotonous, degrading toil and enable those millions to work usefully, cheerfully and enthusiastically IN A PRODUCTIVE WAY. We shall give you a few instances, and you will supply the others.

When men are really honest, no policemen will be required. We have now in the big cities, on the average, one policeman for every schoolteacher—no crime, no dishonesty, NO POLICEMEN.

Wherever you spend your money you buy things of one person AND YOU PAY YOUR MONEY TO ANOTHER. One unproductive, idle human being sits to take your money, BECAUSE THE HONESTY OF ANOTHER CANNOT BE TRUSTED. Honesty would free all the CASHIERS.

Honesty would take all the conductors from the street cars and from the trains and give them better and more profitable work.

There is no real wealth in this world except human intelligence, and all human intelligence employed to check the dishonesty of human beings is absolutely going to waste.

With honesty you would require one clerk instead of ten. You would have no private detectives watching in stores. You would have a few very well-paid, keen and intelligent directors saying to the buyer, "Such a thing will be found in such a place; take it, leave your money and go."

Do you laugh at this idea? No, you don't, for you know that if a man has gradually become different from a monkey he can gradually become different from a thief.

There are places in Switzerland where the goods are left in the store, the man takes his goods, leaves his money—and those stores pay, BECAUSE OF HONESTY.

Two young American girls made a comfortable living because they appealed to honesty, and so brought it out. They put their candy in a store, invited people to take it and leave the money. They had no clerks and no watchers, AND THEY MADE MONEY.

Honesty will be one of the great labor saving devices. It will put into useful, productive work all of those that now collect money and watch against thievery.

Temperance, strong nervous systems and balanced brains will be great labor saving agents. They will free from useless labor those that manufacture stimulants to excess, tobacco and all the other substitutes for intelligent thought.

High ambition, emulation in place of competition, will be labor saving agents—they will turn the real genius of the race to the service of the race. You will live to see the biggst men working to help the weaker and lift up all, instead of working to get the better of each other.

In the outside world primitive man has found, and is still finding, labor saving agents, wonderful devices that push him forward. But IN HIS OWN BRAIN, in that invisible, intangible, apparently unreal thing that we call THE SOUL—that no man has ever seen and that fools deny—the real civilization of the future will find the solution of the world's great problems.

Do You Know This Man?

Little Bobbie's Pa

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

Pa has been funny a lot of times, but he was nevver so funny as he wos when he caim hoam from a beefstake diner & Ma had the Dignified Dames up to the house. She was sorry that Pa caim hoam so erly, beekaus Ma is vary proud of Pa & she doesn't like to have him meet the Dignified Dames after he has went to a beef-stake dinner.

Well, gurls, sed Pa, I am sure glad to see you. You see, a man gits mighty tired of mingling with men, & wants to feel, now & then, the reefining influens of wimmen. Let us all drink a toast to wimmen, sed Pa. Here is to wimmen, the peepul that expect the least & git the moast. How is that for a toast, sed Pa.

None of the ladies wich was at the party sed anything, so Pa kept on talking. Wimmen, sed Pa, are all that is best & noablest in this vale through wich we are traveling through. No man ever fell, no matter how hard he fell, that thare was not sum sweet little woman at his side, patting his feevered brow & saying I know you have fallen, deer, & look what fell out of yure pocket.

Woman, sed Pa, is the lode-stone wich draws the magnet man. Without woman, man would be four hearts & a spade. Without woman, man would be like a Cain, chasing acrost the desert with the mark on his brow & a sheriff on his trail. Without woman, sed Pa, man would be like a lordly pine, swept by the simoon of the desert & shattered by the waves of the oshun, tossed by the gales of the Northwest & scorched by the sun of the tropic of Capricorn. How do you like that, gurls, sed Pa. I guess that's bad.

Doant you think you had better go & take a nap, sed Ma. I think the terribul humidity of the city has went to yure brane. Go & sleep a hour, deerest, sed Ma, wile me & the rest of the Dignified Dames is finishing our sesshun.

Not a chanst, sed Pa, not a chanst. I doant offen git a oppor-tunity to mingle with the ladies, & wen I do, I make t most of it. Lissen, gurls, sed Pa, dr close around me & I will sing you a so Pleese doant, sed Ma. But I shall, sed I & then Pa toald them wat the song w The naim of the song, Pa sed, is The Go Teeth. It deels with a honest yung farm wich had his wife's teeth filled with go & then she left him to be a sufra-g Then Pa sang:

A yung hard working farmer with a wa
upon his chin
Was working in the corn feeld jest as da light did begin.
He sed I hate to do my wife a particle harm,
But sumhow I must try & lift the mor
gage on this farm.
He hurried to the farm house & his wi
was waiting there,
He took a pair of pinchers & attacked h
wife so fair.
& as he jerked the gold teeth out, jest
the brake of day,
His wife looked at him sadly, & appealing
did say:

CHORUS.

Please do not take my jewelry, tis all tha
I have left,
If you pawn my bi-cuspids you will leav
yure gurl bereft.
My father & my mother sed I married fa
beneath,
But I nevver thought my husband wud stee his wife's gold teeth.

Well, gurls, sed Pa, how do you like it I think you better go to bed, sed Ma, o else go into the library & read a book. Oh doant let him go, sed the rest of the Dignified Dames. We think he is jest too funny for anything.

But Pa was mad then, & he went to the library. Then all the ladies sed to Ma, what do you care if he has a littel fun. He has a iron constitushun. Maybe he has a iron constitushun, sed Ma, but he is all the time putting rivets into it.

LETTERS FROM AMERICAN READERS

DENOUNCES LESLIE SHAW

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Your remarks on Leslie M. Shaw are not quite scathing enough. You say that the ex-Secretary of the Treasury "hasn't a very high idea of the people of America, or of the American Government." Why should he? Look at the class of representatives that are elected to Congress and to the Senate.

Mr. Shaw himself is an example of the usual Secretary of the Treasury selected by the President at the dictation of the money mongers of high finance.

In order that these buccaneers, creators of fake panics, can loot the banks and trust companies at their leisure, a man of the Shaw type is absolutely necessary as Secretary of the Treasury.

It is only after the panic has done its worst and the robbers of widows and orphans have made the poor devils disgorge their securities that the Secretary of the Treasury announces that he has found a means to assist the banks—and presto, the panic is over.

JOHN RICHARDS.

LIKES TEMPERANCE EDITORIAL

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

I have read with interest your editorial, "True Temperance," and please consider this a personal tribute rather than an article for publication.

This article places in readable form thoughts of value to every clear thinker. A citizen of Worcester, Mass. (the largest no-license city in the world), and a worker for years in the cause of temperance, I cannot fail to return some word of cheer to you.

The words "prohibition" and "temperance" are used so many times without any reference to the facts that it would be well to drop both and substitute true temperance.

If the people as a whole would demand true, sane temperance laws they would be easily enforced. For the people usually get what they want. Perhaps not as soon as they want it, but they get it.
